

DEMOCRATS BEGIN INTER-ASSAULT SAVE TAX PLAN

Leaders See Ad- Praction Appeal for Revision as Revival of Program.

GE ECONOMIES NATURAL SLASHES

entatives Garner Byrns Predict Def- icit Instead of Surplus for Year 1925.

Washington, December 31.—(Spe- cial.)—Democrats in the house have started a counter move against what they consider the administration plan of reduction of surtaxes, without a general cut affecting the bulk of tax- payers. Some democratic leaders see in the administration appeal for tax "revision" merely a campaign to re- duce surtaxes and not an intention of putting all down the line, when tax- ation again is taken up by congress next year.

Two democratic members of the house, Representative Garner, of Tex- as, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, and Byrns, of Ten- nessee, member of the appropriations committee, predict that the treasury will not be in as good shape as admin- istration officials have forecast. On this basis they believe that later ad- ministration leaders will claim that only a "revision" which will be inter- preted into reduction of surtaxes should be undertaken.

Question's Coolidge's Figures. Garner disagrees with the prediction made by President Coolidge that there would be a surplus of $67,000,000 at the end of the present fiscal year, ending next June, and a surplus of $234,000,000 at the end of the following fiscal year, seen by Representative Madden, of Illinois, chairman of the house appropriations committee.

"For this fiscal year," said Garner, "ending June 30, next, instead of a surplus there will be a deficit of $30,000,000 and instead of a surplus of $234,000,000 for the year following it will not amount to more than $200,000,000. It is evident that what is planned is tax revision according to the Mellon ideal of low surtaxes and not tax reduction."

To Insist on General Cut. At the same time Garner insisted that if there is to be any cut on taxes paid by the "big fellows" he will insist on a proportionate cut of the taxes paid by the "little fellow."

There are only about 800,000 people who pay an income of more than $5,000 and Garner says he will fight for a reduction on the taxes of the big majority if it is proposed to revise taxes by cutting down those who pay income on more than $5,000.

The situation promises revival of the entire controversy which was waged in the last session of congress over the relative merits of the Mellon and Garner plans of taxation, with the question of genuine economy ac- complishments of the Coolidge admin- istration thrown in for good measure.

Denies Economy Claim. The threatened deficit in the treasury voiced by Garner is clearly indi- cated in the analysis of the adminis- tration's budget estimate made by Representative Byrns.

Byrns, in a careful analysis of the budget, called attention to the fact there had been no real economy if the appropriations for 1925 are to be compared with those of 1923.

The savings, Byrns contends, are the result chiefly of the fading out of expenditures due not to govern- mental economy but by the process of time.

Preliminary estimates for 1926, he says, out, total $3,062,143,841.48, while those of 1925 were $3,175,109,225. Supplemental appropriations will have to be made, one item alone, amounting to more than $100,000,000 for good roads construction and for tax refunds.

Cites Reductions. Byrns cites the following items which will be reduced automatically:

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Contentment

Contentment comes when you have given expression to the best that is in you. It follows the overcoming of the difficulties that stood between you and your goal. It is the benediction of life that falls on your labors.

Satisfaction can never be found outside oneself. It is an inner quality that is stirred to life by honest effort. It is a reward—and must be worked for and won.

You can secure the best in- serts of your family by alert to the many ad- vertises offered by the Atlanta Classified Ad- vertising Constitution.

Fascist Hordes Sack Newspapers And Invade Lodge

Concentration of Big Ital- ian City Is Ordered as "Grand Demonstration" of Fascisti Strength.

CARBINEERS REPULSE ATTACK MADE ON JAIL

Editorial Rooms and Press of Opposition Paper Are Wrecked, and Then Fire Was Set to Building.

EDITIONS SEIZED THROUGHOUT ITALY

Rome, December 31.—Editions of all the principal opposition newspapers in Italy have been seized by carabinieri by order of Premier Benito Mussolini, fascist commander in chief.

Newspaper offices throughout Italy are guarded by detachments of police to prevent further out- breaks such as those at Florence, where black-shirted fascists stormed through the city wrecking the Nuvo Giornale newspaper plant and other buildings.

Florence, December 31.—Thousands of black-shirted fascisti, stirred to feverish heat by the exhortations of their leaders, have converged upon Florence, defying cordons of car- bineers and sacking the plant of an opposition newspaper, the Nuvo Gio- rnal.

After the assault on the Nuvo Gio- rnal offices, bands of fascisti ac- cused the city, invading and sacking the Masonic lodge and attacking the home of the socialist lawyer, Consoli. Else- where, a strong detachment of black shirts attacked the jail where are confined several fascists. The raiders were repulsed.

Stores Are Closed. Merchants closed their doors as soon as the rioting broke out. Many places of business are locked and shuttered. To reach the Giornale office, the fascisti charged and routed several cordons of carabinieri. The raiders devastated the editorial rooms and presses, and then set fire to the building.

The fascist concentration on Flo- rence was ordered as a "grand demon- stration." Participation was compul- sory. The black shirts descended on the city in motor trucks. The demon- stration is interpreted as an act of defiance toward the liberal parties, which have been unusually severe in their criticism of Premier Mussolini during the last week, with the re- sult that there is talk of Mussolini's resignation.

CHILD NEAR DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Betty Lou McKinney Be- lieved To Be Dying at Grady Hospital—Driver of Automobile Escapes.

Struck down by a speeding car ear- ly Wednesday night, Betty Lou Mc- Kinney, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. M. McKinney, 11 Latimer street, is believed to be dying, according to Grady hospital physicians.

Betty Lou was crossing Marietta street, in front of fire engine house No. 3, carrying a bucket of lard, which she had just purchased for her mother, when an auto struck her down and rushed on.

Passing motorists picked up the victim and carried her to Grady.

CAROLINA MAYOR Sued for Theft Of Barber's Wife

Hendersonville Official Is Defendant in Balm Suit for $50,000.

Hendersonville, N. C., December 31. Suit, carrying a warrant of attach- ment and seeking the recovery of $50,000 from Mayor Sam W. Bryson, of this city, in which the mayor is charged with alienation of the affec- tions of plaintiff's wife, was lodged in Henderson county superior court this afternoon by B. L. Brooks, a local barber.

The action is the outgrowth of what attorneys for both sides admit was a personal encounter between the two men last Saturday afternoon when Brooks is said to have found Bryson in his home. Bryson escaped injury, although it was said that Brooks fired three times at the mayor. The suit is returnable here on January 21.

Brooks, who has been in a jail cell since he was arrested on a charge of shooting at a woman, is said to have been in a jail cell since he was arrested on a charge of shooting at a woman.

Sol Eplan Will Not Take Out License as Provided by Law—Other Dealers To Aid, He Says.

THUNDER OF SILENCE IS AIMED AT RUSSIA

New Federation Chief Will Continue Policy of Op- position to Soviet But Without Brass Band.

BY THOMAS L. STORES. Washington, December 31.—(Spe- cial.)—Under the administration of William Green, newly-elected pres- ident of the American Federation of Labor, the soft pedal will be put on two issues on which the late Samuel Gompers bore down heavily, prohibi- tion and soviet Russia, according to indications here. Green has just taken over the reins in Gompers' old office.

Gompers was a "wet," advocating the return of light wines and beer and never missed an opportunity to emphasize his views. Green is dry. He is not expected to emphasize his own stand, which might be unwise in view of many laboring men hold- ing Gompers' opinion, but to ignore the question and let it drop. Where prohibition has heretofore been kept in the spotlight by labor's opposition, it will now be shoved behind the scenes.

To Cease Riots at Russia. This is expected to be most notice- able in the annual conventions, which have always been flooded with resolu- tions denouncing the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. Hereafter, it is said, these resolutions will be kept off the floor, and the question sidetracked as an issue.

Soviet Russia will drop out as the bete noire of the federation, according to indications. The publications of the federation during Gompers' re- gime were filled with attacks on the Russian government and "exposures" of one type and another. Gompers himself delivered a blast after blast against the system set up by Lenin and Trotsky.

To Liberalize Policies? While the federation is expected to continue its opposition to the com- munist form of government, as set up in Russia, it is apparent that the federation associates through its pub- lications and on platform will subside. It will maintain its position, but will not stress it so strongly in public.

During the next few months it will become apparent whether Green will strike out along more progres- sive lines of policy than those followed by Gompers, as would be his natural inclination, or whether he will follow the tracks of those conservative lead- ers who were responsible for his ele- vation to the post.

that he had secured approximately $13,000 in the bank robbery. She frankly admitted knowledge of his various holdups and stated that she knew prior to her wedding that he had served time in the Iowa state prison and also had escaped from the Kansas prison. Between sobs, at the mention of his name, she affirmed a deep love for her dead husband. She said she did not wish to return to her home in Des Moines and would not do so unless compelled by the authorities.

Wait On Iowa Authorities.

Immediately upon the arrest of Mrs. Wright, Chief of Police Roberts notified the New Orleans authorities of her capture and the recovery of the loot from the bank. Information has also been sent to Des Moines authorities. What disposition will be made upon the action of Iowa authorities, as she is a minor, and if her mother's wish that she be returned to her Des Moines home is carried out, it is considered likely that officials from that city will come to Jacksonville for her.

William E. Wright, 28 years old, was killed yesterday morning at the Louisville and Nashville station at Mobile by police officers. Having been suspected of being a bandit while on the train from New Orleans, Mobile police were requested to be on hand at the station when the train arrived. A running battle ensued, in which Wright was killed and Patrolman Pistole and Special Agent Ferrer were slightly wounded. Rewards of $7,500 had been offered for the capture of Wright.

Had Ticket to Albany, Ga.

A notebook found on the body contained a confession that Wright had killed Thomas Griffin, in Des Moines, November 19, 1923. Two men, according to the confession, "as innocent as babes," are now serving sentences for the crime which he committed.

Mrs. Wright, in a brief statement of her family connections, said she had two sisters and four brothers. She gave her father's name as James Dawson, living at 1223 Scott street, Des Moines, Iowa.

When taken into custody by Officers J. D. Brown and L. B. Harvey, Mrs. Wright had a ticket to Albany, Ga., and said it was her intention to travel for that place at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Busily engaged with some embroidery work while sitting on her cot, Mrs. Wright showed little or no feeling except when mention of her husband was made or reference made to the possibility of her being returned to her home in Des Moines.

BELIEVE BANDIT WAS LOST SON.

Mobile, Ala., December 31.—When train No. 4, of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, pulls out of the L. & N. depot tomorrow afternoon at 12:43 o'clock in the baggage car will be the body of William E. Wright, box-car robber, bank bandit, kidnaper and murderer, killed here Tuesday morning by a squad of Mobile detectives and police, two of whom he wounded.

The Roche Undertaking company, where the corpse has been held since Wright met his spectacular end, received word from Mrs. Jennie Huiatt, supposed to be the mother of the dead man, to ship the body to her at Des Moines, Iowa.

The body would have gone to its last resting place tonight and where if the police records are straight Wright began his criminal career, but the request of Mrs. Etta Scoggins, of Cleveland, Tenn., that she be allowed to view the bandit's remains will be granted. Mrs. Scoggins wired Chief Warren Burch, ex-detective and who had been in office less than a week with some of the most important captures in the country to his record, that she would reach Mobile tomorrow morning.

CONFESION SEEN AS CLEVER RUSE.

Des Moines, Iowa, December 31.—A careful study of the confession to the slaying of Thomas Griffin and an investigation into the movements of W. E. Wright, who was killed in Mobile, Ala., yesterday, will be made before a move for a new trial is started by attorneys for the youths who are serving life sentences for the killing of Griffin, it was announced here today.

Attorneys for the prisoners, declared innocent in Wright's confession, said they believed the confession merited inquiry but that no action would be taken until it had also been established that Wright, who was identified as the robber of a New Orleans bank, was in Des Moines about the time Griffin was killed. Officials concerned with the case were reluctant to believe the Wright confession would free Cecil Mickel and Jack Gaskill, the two men under life sentence for the killing of Griffin. They declared a confession, such as was found in Wright's pocket was a common ruse among criminals.

Governor Kendall discredited a report that he might intervene on behalf of Mickel and Gaskill, stating that he did not believe a new trial was warranted by Wright's confession.

BAD LUCK DOGGED BANDIT TO DEATH.

Mobile, Ala., December 31.—William E. Wright, the bandit slain here Tuesday by Mobile police officers, ran into a string of bad luck in trying to get away from New Orleans, according to a statement of Conductor James K. Tyrell, of northbound Louisville & Nashville train number 28, which he boarded Monday night. Wright figured that his movements were being watched closely from New Orleans to Mobile and his only way to board a train was by stopping it with railroad torpedoes. When the fast train stopped in New Orleans Conductor Tyrell got off near the baggage car and saw the bandit between car and engine and called him to account. Wright wanted at first to purchase a ticket to Bay St. Louis, Miss., and Tyrell told him that could not be done, that he would have to pay cash fare to Mobile and buy a seat in the sleeping car, as the train carried no day coaches. Conductor Tyrell said that he planned to have Wright arrested at Bay St. Louis by the police officer of that place, who meets night trains, but the policeman was not there when the train arrived and he wired to Special Agent Ferrer at Pascagoula, Miss., to board the train and arrest Wright at Mobile, where the latter was shot to death.

Quoting additional expenditures which will have to be made, Byrns says: "If these figures are correct, and if the president's other figures and estimates are correct, we thus see the claim of a surplus of $67,000,000 on June 30, 1925, and increased tax reduction to that amount fades into a deficit of at least $13,000,000."

ROUSING WELCOME GREET'S NEW YEAR

that all of them held New Year's eve watch-night services," said the Rev. Elmer Deane, secretary of the department for the North Georgia Methodist conference.

"We should all be thankful this happy new year," he continued, "for there never was a time when things generally look more hopeful." Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, said that his church and the score or more of other Presbyterian churches were also holding New Year's eve "watch-night" services. He was optimistic regarding the year 1925 and said it should be "the happiest of years."

Services Today.

There will also be special services in a great many churches New Year's day. The holding will be a great home celebration, although the downtown theaters report being entirely sold out for all performances. Society outdid itself this New Year's eve.

The center of activity on Atlanta's social calendar was at the Biltmore hotel, where 644 guests—the largest holiday social crowd ever assembled under one roof in this city—celebrated New Year's advent. It was one of the most gorgeous and outstanding events in the annals of local society.

There was, of course, a special New Year's eve dinner at the Biltmore, as there was also at the Henry Grady, Piedmont, Ansley and other big downtown hostilities, where hundreds of celebrants jammed into dining rooms and lobbies, all bent on an unrestrained celebration of the New Year's arrival.

Beautiful Decorations.

The Biltmore was artistically decorated with New Year's novelties and flowers. There were plenty of noise-makers, paper hats and other paraphernalia, all of which was much in evidence also at the other hotels. The Biltmore's guests were so numerous that it was necessary to utilize both the main dining room and the Georgian ballroom, besides all of the private and other dining rooms and gathering places. Dance music was provided by the noted dance orchestra of Roger Wolfe Kahn, of New York, under direction of John Haney. But the old riddle, Oh, lady, lady! Early in the evening the boys and girls gathered. They started celebrating the New Year even before "Old Man 1924" took his last breath. The theaters were so packed the standers-up didn't know whether they were going in or coming out. Everybody was exuberantly happy. They weren't mad at nobody. You could have sold them Oklahoma oil stock.

City-Wide Event.

The cafes and public gathering places were packed. Restaurants had reservations a long time ahead, but others just got in and made themselves at home. A club sandwich ordered at 11 was on time at 1. The cooks and waiters probably will go into business for themselves in the gratuities. Money was as free as German marks.

The unusual city-wide celebration was marked by its order. It was free from any untoward incident. The police were on hand, but they might as well have joined in the fun, for they had little to do.

Everybody had a good time. Everybody's happy. This is 1925. Let's get down to work and make it the going year Atlanta ever sailed gloriously through.

Secretary Mellon, a friend of Mr. Norman for years, did not know officially of his presence in this country, nor did Secretary Hughes.

To Discuss War Debts?

One official, discussing the visit of the British financiers, said it appeared to him personally that they had not left the Bank of England at this time to come "travelling" here. It was more likely, it was said, that Mr. Norman and his friend, as fiscal officers of Great Britain, had a keen interest in the question of war debts between the United States, France and England, and the matter of claims collections from Germany by the United States, which already has been the subject of note exchanges between London and Washington. It also was suggested the financiers might be interested in the attitude of the United States on questions to come up for discussion January 6 before the allied finance ministers in Paris.

BRITAIN SENDS NOTE ON DAWES PLAN SPLIT.

London, December 31.—Great Britain has sent a note to the United States in an effort to reach an agreement in the Anglo-American dispute relative to American participation in the proceeds of the Dawes plan. Great Britain objects to America's claim for more than the costs of the American army of occupation in Germany. This, with the announcement of the arrival in the United States of Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, on a secret mission of which even Bank of England officials did not know, constitutes the most important development in the debt and reparations situations on Wednesday.

It is understood that Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, suggests in his note a separate committee be formed to consider the American claim at the forthcoming Dawes plan conference at Paris. Finance ministers of all the allied powers will attend the Paris party.

Norman Sent by Chamberlain.

Norman's secret visit to the United States, of which nothing was known here until word came that he had stepped ashore, is the first move of Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, to solve the debt situation which chiefly involves France, England and the United States.

It will be Norman's duty, the United States learns, to obtain an authoritative report on the debt situation as it exists in the United States. Aside from the well-known official sentiments of the American government, Norman will endeavor to obtain a confidential, unofficial, but nevertheless authoritative statement of just what Washington thinks about the possibility of obtaining payment from France, the proportions in which such payments should be divided between England and the United States, and the method of obtaining them. Norman wants to know whether the United States actually believes that France ever will be able to pay her debts in full. Britain does not think so, and British financiers are confident that they can prove the correctness of their position.

Visit Not Diplomatic One.

Not in any way may Norman's visit be considered as official. The bank represents a private concern, although it is so intermixed with the business of English government as actually to be the pillar of British finance. During his stay here Norman will conduct considerable private business, but his big job is to obtain information that he can use in diplomatic notes. There is in England a reluctance to believe that the United States is as confident of obtaining payment in full from France as it officially declares of Secretary of State Hughes and President Coolidge have indicated.

Norman's departure from England was a secret affair wherein he led his close business associates to believe he simply was going to the country for the Christmas holidays. The next they heard of him he was in New York, and even his own bank professes to be surprised at the news.

The English pound sterling is creeping toward par with the American dollar, and it is understood that Norman will discuss exchange with American banking houses before he returns to London.

FRANCE SEEKS LENIENCY BUT NOT CANCELLATION.

Paris, December 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—M. Clementel, the French finance minister, has set before Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, various observations on the minister's inventory of France's finances, indicating that France had no thought of repudiating her war debts, but sought leniency of treatment and the application of the principle of the Dawes plan to a settlement.

M. Clementel called on Ambassador Herrick today and the conversations between the two occupied a very considerable time. At their conclusion the ambassador said he would forward a copy of the inventory to the state department at Washington and a transcript of the discussion on the subject.

Proposal Stirs Interest. The prospect that the Dawes plan may be utilized as a basis for a settlement of the French war debt and those of the other allied powers created ever more interest than the identical note which France and Great Britain are sending to Germany regarding the postponement of the graduation of Cologne originally set for January 10.

M. Clementel's courageous declaration in favor of a system which the French public accepted with little enthusiasm, for a settlement with Germany is thought among those sympathetic to the government, may give an entirely new turn to the discussion of the war debt question. Such a speculation has been indulged in takes the line that the United States, which so heartily approved the plan as applied to Germany, can scarcely object to its consideration for settlement of the allied war debt.

Ends Idea of Repudiation.

One marked advantage to the French from its proposal for such a settlement, it is pointed out, would be to put an end to all suspicion that they want to repudiate their debts. It is understood that M. Clementel summed parliamentary circles on the subject before last (that he was sure) the chamber in France were well. It is thought that would help France out of the war debts due put in the doubt. The French press, the nervousness caused by the American criticisms of the inventory, and talk of seems to have come to the fore for the uneasy Washington dispatch.

Empire Coffee

Years of experience in the selection, blending and roasting of fine coffee have produced our EMPIRE blend, the COFFEE FOR CONNOISSEURS.

It is blended for people who demand the best and there is none better on the market.

Roasted and shipped daily, it goes to you

Always Fresh—Always Good

The growth of our coffee business has been phenomenal. Sales increased 33 per cent in 1924.

Farm Bell Extracts

We manufacture in our own laboratory from the best stock a full line of flavoring extracts which we guarantee equal to the best. You can count on their quality and freshness.

THIS rare experience has been ours through the goodness of Providence and the kindness of friends who have given us their patronage.

We have seen the ebb and flow of the tides of fortune many times, and towering commercial landmarks that held an honorable eminence for years have one by one yielded to the touch of time.

There has been nothing mysterious about the growth and progress of our business. So far as we are concerned, it is accounted for by the simplest of methods and the soundest of principles—all tested by time.

The distinguishing feature of our operations has been the spot cash system, inaugurated twenty-two years ago today, when it was without precedent in the wholesale grocery business and was so radical a departure from the customs of the time that it was considered revolutionary, if not impossible. It was, in fact, a modern application of the time-honored policy of "pay as you go," and "short settlements make long friends," but we happened to be the first to apply it in our field.

It is a source of satisfaction to know that many of the best concerns in the business are now operated on a cash basis. This means a great deal to the public, as it costs less to distribute merchandise for cash and this saving ultimately goes to the consumer.

It is gratifying to know that our example has had this effect upon the trade. The cardinal point in our business code is the old-fashioned square deal. Our application of it is the invariable rule that no transaction is completed until our contract is fully complied with.

To make these methods effective we have required of our employees a prompt and efficient service. With this requirement goes fair compensation and every reasonable consideration for their welfare. Their service has been all we could ask and for each of them we have the most cordial friendship.

Our officers have risen from the ranks and a number of employees have become the owners of stock which substantially increased their income. We attribute the success of our business largely to Mr. F. B. Coleman and Mr. E. M. Hudson, our vice presidents. Mr. Coleman has been with us from the start and Mr. Hudson almost as long. The late W. D. Williamson, for years treasurer of the company, was an important factor in its success and has been worthily succeeded by his son, Mr. A. Y. Williamson, our present treasurer. Mr. H. Y. McCord, Jr., has been in the business since he left school, and besides being secretary of the company, has the important task of sales manager.

On the fortieth anniversary of our business, we extend to customers and friends our grateful thanks for the patronage and confidence which has been with us for so many years.

There are many satisfactions in a well conducted business but the best of them all is the satisfaction that comes with service.

With Creation of Peach, Georgia Has 161 Counties

BY MRS. C. N. ROUNTREE.

Fort Valley, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—Good morning, Georgia, Peach county greets you as the 161st county in the state, and today takes place among her sister counties. Peach county comes a reality January 1, 1925, and enters the sisterhood of Georgia counties under most auspicious circumstances. All of the bitterness and antagonism of the once opposing sections, have disappeared, and Houston and Macon counties are wishing the new county well.

Peach county is the national highway leading from Macon to Perry. The line on the north extends to the Bibb county line, six miles north of Byron. Fort Valley County Seat. Fort Valley, the county seat, is a town of 3,500 people, and is recognized as the peach center of the world, more peaches being shipped from Fort Valley than any other point in the world. It has recently paved with concrete the principal business streets, and installed a whiteway system. Many buildings are now in course of construction, among them being a million dollar ice plant by the Atlantic Ice & Coal corporation, which will have facilities to ice 1,000 cars a day. The Central of Georgia railroad is installing additional tracks here to care for fruit cars. Fort Valley is traversed by the Central of Georgia railroad from Macon, which branches here, one line going to Columbus and the other to Albany and points southwest. The Central also operates a line to Perry, 20 miles south. This is the southern terminus of the Atlanta-Fort Valley line of the Southern railroad. Fort Valley has many manufacturing plants. Commodious quarters have been secured for the courthouse and county officers. G. H. Slappy has generously given the use of Austin theater to the new county for one year for a court room and offices, and the new county government will be set up promptly and housed without delay. The people of Peach have a definite program already mapped out for the various activities of the county. Notable among these are for schools and good roads. It is proposed to have the whole county incorporated into one school district, with four school centers, viz., Lakeview, Powersville, Byron and Fort Valley, with equal advantages for all the children in the county.

Dixie Highway Crosses. The western Dixie highway from Macon to Florida, via Andersonville and Albany, passes through Peach county lengthwise and the state route from Barnesville to Perry crosses Peach county from east to west. Both of these roads are under the supervision of the state highway department, and every effort is to be made locally to put these two links through Peach county into the best possible shape, looking to the attraction of travel to these routes as much as possible.

In the spring primary practically all of the officers to serve for the next four years were nominated from the Peach county territory. They followed the agreement as to lines and the bill to create the new county, the agreement being conditioned upon the agreement on the part of all the nominees on the Peach county ticket that, upon ratification of the bill to create the county of Peach, they would resign the offices to which they were elected, so that the people of Houston could elect their officers from their own territory.

Following this agreement all officers have resigned, the people of the Peach county section having promised to elect them to the corresponding offices in the new county and it is understood that all of them will be elected on January 7 without opposition, in the spirit of cooperation that characterizes the people of this section.

The county goes into actual existence one week prior to the election of officers and pending the election, Houston county officials will continue to discharge their duties throughout the whole area. The election will be formally held on Wednesday, January 7, and immediately upon the issuance of their commissions by the governor will enter actively upon the discharge of their duties.

History of County.

In the spring of 1914 a group of Fort Valley citizens met at the home of the late Alva B. Greene for the purpose of definitely launching the movement for the creation of a new county with Fort Valley the county seat. Among those attending the meeting besides Greene were Albin J. Evans, D. C. Strother, Max L. James, J. E. Davidson and C. L. Shepard. Most of these men were lifelong citizens of Houston county and widely respected in the community. These men had vision and recognized the possibilities of a new county if the large area in the northern part of Houston county should be free to develop properly and normally. For many years there had been a growing sentiment in favor of the division of Houston county and it only needed organization and leadership to crystallize the sentiment into an active movement for the accomplishment of the desired end. By almost unanimous consent it was agreed that as the section to be included within the new county was the center of the great and growing peach industry, and Fort Valley, the largest shipping point in the world for peaches, "Peach county" should be the name of the new subdivision.

With an unparalleled spirit of cooperation and zeal, which characterized them up to date, the people of the area involved set themselves to the task of getting the necessary legislation passed and securing the ratification thereof by the people of the state.

Once Defeated.

The bill to create the county passed the legislature in 1922 and then met defeat before the people in the general election.

This had never occurred in the history of any fight for a new county in Georgia and it was freely predicted that there was not the remotest possibility of the measure again passing the legislature, or if passed by the legislature that the people of the state would ever ratify it.

The advocates of Peach county, however, were undaunted and came back to the fight with good grace and fine assurance of ultimate victory. Seeing that the contest was not to end and as the fight between those favoring the new county and those opposing it had become bitter, it became evident that the old county of Houston was divided into irreconcilable factions which would be hurtful to the peace, progress and prosperity of all the people, representatives of all factions came together in the spring of 1924 and worked out a compromise, agreeing upon lines and terms of the bill to create the new county. This bill was introduced in the senate by Senator G. A. Smith, of the twenty-third district and passed both branches of the legislature at the 1924 session by liberal constitutions majorities and upon submission to the people in the general election on November 7, was ratified by a vote of 77,952 to 31,211.

CENTRAL TRAFFIC TOWER SYSTEM URGED FOR CITY

Installation of centrally-operated traffic towers for Atlanta, to cost approximately $100,000, Tuesday was recommended by the police committee of city council and council will be asked at its meeting Monday to install the proposed system.

It was explained that such towers could govern both motor and pedestrian traffic not only at the intersection at which they are located, but on a number of nearby cross streets. It is thought that four or five towers would suffice to control traffic for the entire city.

In addition, the new system would relieve a number of policemen from traffic duty.

Planning Commission To Consider Changes In Names of Streets

New names for Atlanta streets which now are duplicated will be considered Friday by the city planning commission, and the list adopted will be recommended to city council Monday.

Following an intensive study by a subcommittee of the planning commission, composed of B. F. Atchison and Frank Pittman, a partial report revealed that 27 Atlanta streets have duplicate names. Changes were recommended by the committee, but council referred the entire matter to the planning commission for further consideration.

A large list of new names has been compiled by R. W. Torras, engineer and secretary to the planning board, and will be submitted Friday.

In addition to the 27 streets for which new names will be proposed, there are about ten other Atlanta streets with duplicate names, members of the planning commission stated Wednesday.

$15.00 Doll for $4.95

When the "Little Miss Georgia" doll Christmas campaign offer of The Atlanta Constitution closed, it was found that there were a few of these magnificent dolls left on hand. Rather than carry them over to another season, Constitution subscribers can obtain them while the supply lasts at $4.95, which is considerably less than cost.

"Little Miss Georgia" doll walks, talks, sleeps, winks, blinks, rolls her eyes, and does everything else that the premier doll of all time would be expected to do. She is non-breakable, elaborately outfitted; has real hair, and is over 24 inches tall.

This doll has readily sold at retail throughout the country at from $12.50 to $15.00 each.

Atlanta and suburban Constitution subscribers and their friends can obtain the dolls at the city circulation department, second floor, Constitution building. Out-of-town orders filled by mail in first and second zone at same price, but beyond second zone 25c should be added up to fourth zone, and beyond that 50c additional.

This will be a splendid New Year's gift to some little girl.

Joint Conference Committee Or Commission of Experts May Solve Shoals Problem

Administration Leaders Favor Substitution of Underwood Bill for House Measure.

Washington, December 31.—The Muscle Shoals problem will be solved by either a joint conference committee of the senate and house or by a commission of experts, if the administration forces in the senate succeed in carrying out their program.

The aim of the senate leaders now is centered on an effort to send at least two propositions to conference, where it is hoped a satisfactory bill will be reported. The majority leaders are making an effort to have the

Underwood bill adopted as a substitute to the house bill, instead of the Norris government operation measure.

Underwood Bill Suits Coolidge.
Under the Underwood bill, Muscle Shoals could either be leased for private operation or operated by a government corporation, and, in the opinion of the senate leaders, fits in with the administration plan.

Passage of the Underwood bill would send the measure to conference, and the conferees would have an opportunity to iron out contested features before reporting the bill in finished form.

Senate leaders also are giving consideration to the amendment of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, which would refer the whole question to a commission of experts to submit recommendations for the approval of congress. A move in this direction probably would come after either the Underwood or Norris bills had been accepted as a substitute to the house bill, which provided for the leasing of the property to Henry Ford, who has since withdrawn his offer.

Vote Soon Is Probable.
Muscle Shoals resumes its position at the head of the senate calendar Friday, when further consideration will be given to amendments to the Underwood and Norris bills. A vote is probable before the end of next week.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, conferred with President Coolidge at the white house today on Muscle Shoals. The Michigan senator said he got the impression during the interview that the chief executive was not committed to any definite plan.

Senator Couzens said he told the president that if the leasing provisions were stricken out of the Underwood bill, he would favor the measure, as it then would provide for the operation of Muscle Shoals by a government corporation. He declared he was opposed to the Norris government operation bill because he objected to its power provisions.

UNDERWOOD RECOVERING FROM ATTACK OF ILL.
Washington, December 31.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, former democratic leader in the senate, who has been ill at his home here with influenza, has responded readily to treatment, his physicians said tonight, and will be able to return to the senate as soon as the present spell of bad weather has broken.

Senator Underwood, who for some weeks has been conducting a strong fight in the senate in favor of his bill for leasing Muscle Shoals, is able now to attend to his correspondence at his home, and his general condition is described as very good.

ALL STATES AFFECTED BY POULTRY EMBARGO

Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, Georgia state veterinarian, speaking in regard to the embargo which he has ordered against all shipments of live poultry into Georgia from outside points, Wednesday declared the embargo affected shipments from any point beyond the state boundaries, regardless of whether the European poultry plague, against which it is raised, has appeared in the particular section affected.

"Practically all states have now put a similar embargo into effect," said Dr. Bahnsen. "It is necessary to understand that it is realized that shipments from the infected areas in the middle west could easily be re-routed to Georgia from some other state which has refused to admit them, though itself free from the plague. Thus, Georgia might believe, for instance, that a shipment came from Alabama, whereas its real point of origin was Illinois or some other state."

No Plague in Georgia.
Dr. Bahnsen reiterated that no cases of poultry plague had yet appeared in Georgia, but insisted that utmost care must be taken to prevent its entrance into this state.

"Our poultry industry is only young," he said, "and we are not the finances or resources to fight a serious plague. Therefore, if it ever came here, it would probably wipe out the entire industry as far as Georgia is concerned, and it is to prevent this calamity that we are placing this embargo."

The state veterinarian said that later, when the nature of the new disease and the territory affected have been more exactly defined, he believed that stricter quarantine regulations against the infected areas would be put in effect and that when this was done, the rest of the country could relax to some extent quarantines and embargoes.

Embargo Order Quoted.
The embargo ordered by Dr. Bahnsen not only applies to live fowl, but also to all coops and crates which have been used in transporting poultry. This section of his order reads as follows:

"The movement of any live hens, roosters, capons, chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese, pigeons, etc., into the state of Georgia from any point outside of the state is hereby prohibited. The movement into the state of any coop or crate which has been used for shipping or transporting hens, roosters, capons, chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese, pigeons, etc., from any point outside of the state is hereby prohibited."

ONE DEAD, 5 HURT WHEN FAST TRAIN HITS MOTOR BUS

Miami, Fla., December 31.—One woman was killed and five persons were injured tonight when a Hollywood Land & Water Co. passenger bus was struck by a Florida East Coast passenger train about 7 o'clock tonight at the Hollywood-Florida crossing, 19 miles north of Miami, according to word reaching here.

The five injured were reported in a serious condition. They are in Fort Lauderdale hospital. The bus was badly wrecked.

McCord Praised And Presented Silver Service

Joseph A. McCord, prominent banker and for more than ten years connected with the Federal Reserve bank here, Wednesday ended his services as chairman of the board and federal reserve agent. He will immediately assume the duties of chairman of the Mortgage Guaranty Company of America, and will continue to make his residence in Atlanta.

Oscar Newton, of Jackson, Miss., today will succeed Mr. McCord as chairman of the Federal Reserve bank board and federal reserve agent. Resolutions were adopted by employees and officials of the bank praising the long and efficient service of Mr. McCord and handsome presents were given to the bank official on his departure. Mr. McCord was eulogized in a talk by the new chairman, Mr. Newton.

A silver tea service was presented Mr. McCord by employees of the Federal Reserve bank, while employees of the agents department gave the departed official two handsome pieces of silver. The remainder of the silver set was presented to Mr. McCord by officials and employees of the bank. A silver gift also included a silver platter.

Presentation for the bank employees was made by Milton W. Bell, cashier of the bank, while E. McGuire, examiner of the agents department, Mr. McCord was given a beautiful loving cup by the board of directors the second week in December in appreciation of his services.

Mr. McCord also was praised for his services by Governor Wellborn of the federal reserve bank.

NEGROES CELEBRATE EMANCIPATION DAY

Atlanta negroes today will celebrate their emancipation with exercises at the Big Bethel A. M. E. church. Services will begin promptly at 12 o'clock noon.

Dr. M. S. Davage, president of Clark university, will deliver the principal address. There will also be other speakers and varied exercises. Ceremonies are being held under auspices of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

ATLANTA LEADS MARINE SERVICE RECRUITING LIST

Atlanta has topped the list or stood near the top every month in 1924 in the number of recruits enlisted in different cities for marine service, it was shown in a report of activities of the local marine recruiting branch given out Wednesday by Lieutenant C. Prichard, in charge in Atlanta.

Due to the fact that the authorized strength of the marines is now nearly filled out, a small number of men can be accepted during the month of January, Lieutenant Prichard stated. He, therefore, advised those who are contemplating entering the marine service to do so as soon as possible before the quota is filled.

$950,000 BOND ISSUE ALREADY HALF TAKEN

That eastern investors, as well as southern, have great confidence in the stability and future growth of Atlanta is again evidenced by the rapid absorption of the $950,000 bond issue offered by the Adair Realty & Trust Co. and secured by the 750 Ponce de Leon apartments, now under construction at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues.

Although the issue is offered as of January 1, Adair Realty & Trust Co. reported Wednesday that practically one-half of the entire issue had been sold or reserved at the close of the company's business December 31. According to Vice President E. A. Erwin it was expected that, with the exception of unpaired for reservation and a few bonds of smaller denominations, the entire issue would be sold by the close of business Friday, New Year's being a holiday with the company.

Mr. Erwin stated that there was a great demand for well-selected first mortgage real estate bonds on Atlanta projects, and stated that one of the leading surety companies would guarantee any of Adair's issues as evidence of the stability and safety of Atlanta investments wisely made.

The 750 Ponce de Leon apartment hotel will be one of the finest structures of its kind ever to be erected in the south. Closely patterned after similar structures in New York and other large cities, it will offer the last word in modern equipment and convenience, including a central refrigeration plant and steam laundry.

The building will be nine stories in height, containing 394 rooms. Asa G. Candler, Jr., heads the corporation which owns the building.

VAN RIPER REFUSES TO RESIGN POST

Newark, N. J., December 31.—Attorney General Stone and Assistant U. S. District Attorney Walter D. Van Riper, of Newark, have come to close grips over the Jersey scandal. Van Riper has refused to resign and Stone's request for resignation and dismissal. Majed Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, for "her recent telegram ordering Van Riper and Walter G. Winne, his immediate superior, to keep their hands off the prosecution of liquor matters."

Van Riper gave his letter of refusal to the newspapers as "the only way to have of getting my case before the public," but refused to make Stone's communication public. His action leaves the attorney general no alternative but to summarily remove him from office.

Scars Attorney General.
Van Riper rapped Stone sharply, declaring "both you and your assistant have tried this case through the newspapers by insinuation and innuendo in a manner which gave the public the idea that it was all very innocent and serious, and was a matter of fact, the whole thing has been a tempest in a teapot."

Van Riper declared he had not been all to discover, even during visits to Washington, the basis for Mrs. Willebrandt's action, and that the public had been allowed to gain the erroneous impression that an investigation was ordered to determine whether Mrs. Willebrandt's lack of faith was justified.

Denies Probe.
"There has been no investigation," Van Riper said, "because there was nothing to investigate. There have been no real charges because there was nothing to charge. Mrs. Willebrandt has not attempted seriously to justify this slanderous telegram."

Part of the information which led Mrs. Willebrandt to become dissatisfied with the Winne administration, and particularly with the services of Van Riper, came from the Anti-Saloon league of New Jersey. Samuel Wilson, assistant superintendent of the league, said he did not know how much the league had to do with the result, but he believed the attorney general knew what he was about and that he acted for the good of the service.

BARNESVILLE CIVITANS MEET AT BANQUET

Barnesville, Ga., December 31.—(Special).—One of the most brilliant events of the year was the banquet given by the Barnesville Civitans club Tuesday evening at the Sixth District A. M. school, where the dining hall presented a scene of beauty, the decorations being arranged by members of the several women's clubs of the city. There were 215 men and women present, the menu consisting of a four-course dinner.

Every feature of the entertainment was most interesting and fun reigned the three hours of the banquet. The Civitan club has made a wonderful impression on this community and is constantly directing the attention of the people to great tasks and it is accomplishing excellent results.

Besides the amusement provided by the program of stunts and jollification there were numerous numbers calling for real talent and provoking serious thought on the part of all present.

B. H. Hardy, president, presided as toastmaster.

5 IN ST. LOUIS DIE OF GAS POISONING

St. Louis, December 31.—The toll of dead from accidental gas poisoning in St. Louis the last 48 hours was increased to five today with the death of Mrs. Martha Hyatt, 70. Eighteen others had been overcome, some of whom were still in hospitals today.

Officials of the Laclede Gas Light company acknowledged the danger from broken gas mains, but said they were not aware of any lack of pressure which would have caused burners or jets to go out.

BIG HOTEL PLANNED NEAR SARASOTA, FLA.

Sarasota, Fla., December 31.—Thirty business men of this city at a meeting held last night subscribed $220,000 to stock in the Ritz-Carlton hotel to be built on Longboat Key, near this city. The Ritz-Carlton company made a proposition to Sarasota that they would build the hotel if the people of the city subscribed $400,000. The rest of the money is assured. John Ringling, circus magnate, heads the list with $100,000.

Kansas Bank Robbed.

Kansas City, Kan., December 31.—The Kaw Valley State bank was held up and robbed of $11,690 here today by three men. Seven persons, including three customers, were taken to a back room and made to lie on the floor while the bank was looted. The robbers missed by a few minutes the payroll of Armour & Co., packers, which was on the way to the bank.

Rain and Slump Of Ten Degrees Predicted Today

More rain Thursday, and a drop of about ten degrees in the temperature, is the prediction made by C. F. von Herrmann, official forecaster for this territory.

The colder weather, however, does not mean serious discomfort, for the mercury can drop 10 degrees below Wednesday's coldest and still not go below the freezing point. The readings Wednesday ranged from 42 in the early morning to 48 during the afternoon. The change in temperature was caused by a shift in the wind about noon Wednesday, when it started blowing from the northwest.

December, which ended last night, saw one long-standing weather record outdone. A temperature of 73 degrees, recorded on the 18th of the month, marked the highest point the mercury has ever touched during the month of December since records were first kept here. The coldest reading of the month was 29 degrees, on the 20th. This was far from a record, however, December, 1923, having shown one day when it dropped to 1 degree above zero.

The temperature for the entire month will average about one degree above normal December weather, but about six degrees lower than that of December, 1923, which was unusually warm. Exact figures have not yet been worked out, the month not ending until midnight, but a full analysis of the month and the year from a meteorological standpoint will be completed Friday.

Up to noon on the 29th of the month the rainfall was 1.8 of an inch above normal. The heavy rains of the last two days are expected to bring this to about two inches above normal for the month.

DR. SUN YAT-SEN SAYS HE IS OUT OF POLITICS

Peking, December 31.—Sun Yat-sen, former head of the southern Chinese republic, with his capital at Canton, has arrived here and has issued a pamphlet asserting that he does not want political power and calling upon the people to "save the country." Dr. Sun's pamphlet declares that the political activity of the month and the year from the present time.

Court Halted to Save Money.
Judge D. E. Matthews at Huntington, W. Va., continued every case on the December calendar of the common pleas court until the next term, in order to save the taxpayers' money. Judge Matthews declared that to hold the jurors and continue court when few litigants appeared, would be squandering the taxpayers' money needlessly.

Many Enrolling To Begin Business Courses January 5-12 At Southern Business College

The Newly Equipped Southern, Now a Monument to Atlanta, Solicits Patronage From Every State in the Union.

Students from all sections will begin Business Courses at the Southern Shorthand and Business University, in its beautifully equipped new home, located at 50 Whitehall street, during the first two weeks of January.

Applications for entrance are already in from the states of New York, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia.

The Southern bids for the patronage of those who are seeking the best advantages.

Its long standing of fifty-nine years, coupled with its superior facilities, including an efficient faculty of ten teachers, 110 typewriting machines, Burroughs Bookkeeping and Adding Machines, Mimeograph and Protograph, new and up-to-date furniture throughout, give this institution prestige enjoyed by few schools in the country.

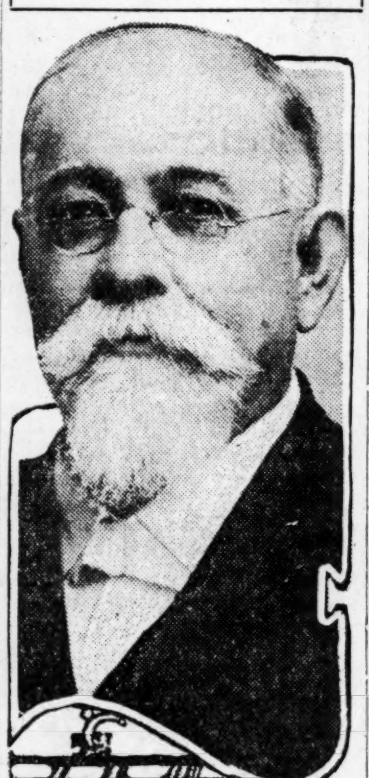

Those desiring to enter the Business World should not fail to visit the New Southern, because to see it is to want to attend it, and it would certainly be a source of regret to those entering other schools, if they should do so without visiting and seeing the Southern.

The Employment Department is busy even these times supplying the business men with stenographers and bookkeepers. Several of the students have been sent to positions during the past two weeks.

Classes will resume next Monday, January 5th, and many new pupils will enroll on that date and the following Monday, January 12th.

Call, phone or write for catalog, and get your application in right away.

Hot Fight Slated on Jitney Elimination Proposal—Further Study of Traffic Items Slated After January 5.

A full study of the report of the A. Beeler committee on Atlanta traffic situation probably will be completed in time to make recommendations to city council Monday, it was announced Wednesday by Councilman J. R. Buchanan, chairman of the special traffic committee. The committee, which was appointed more than a year ago to investigate the re-traffic of the Georgia Railway, New York, recommendations will be made concerning practically every regulation by the power company's traffic department, which include the proposed increase in the charge for transfers, re-traffic of the Georgia Railway, and the proposed increase in the charge for transfers, re-traffic of the Georgia Railway, and the proposed increase in the charge for transfers, re-traffic of the Georgia Railway.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

Cuticura Complexions Are Fresh And Clear

Daily use of Cuticura Soap prevents clogging and irritation of the pores, the usual cause of pimples and blackheads, while the Ointment soothes and heals. Always keep Cuticura Talcum on hand; it is cooling and refreshing.

Complexion better than ever before

Milwaukee, Wis., May 12: "A year ago I had a very ugly and embarrassing itching rash on my chin. I tried so many different treatments on it which did little good, that finally I became discouraged. The druggist one day recommended Resinol Soap and I decided to try it and after using it less than one week, the itching and burning ceased. I thought if the soap could bring such relief, then the Resinol Ointment must certainly clear away the trouble entirely. After applying it for three nights, you can imagine how delighted I was to find the rash all gone, with not even a trace of redness left. I now keep Resinol Ointment within reach at all times—would not be without it. I find it very economical to use, as a little goes a long way. I have used Resinol Soap daily and will continue to do so. My complexion today is better than ever before, has a beautiful glow and, in fact, is all that it should be—thanks to your wonderful Resinol Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. J. J. LEGISLATION TWO NEW PEERS

London, December 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—The king's New Year's honor list was issued this evening. As usual, the honors are largely promotions of persons in the various government services at home, in India and in the colonies. It is notable, however, that in the list more than customary attention has been paid by King George to art, science and literature.

LEGISLATION SUGGESTED

"It is time for the people of the state of Georgia, and the whole country to put a stop to this legalized dealing in blood, and the man who quibbles about constitutional difficulties, takes upon himself the responsibility of much of the blood that is being shed in this state by the reckless use of the deadly pistol, much of which is due to the ease with which this man-killer weapon can be bought."

SENATOR'S COMMUNICATION

"I heartily endorse your editorial on your anti-pistol stand. The pistol should be outlawed, and the simplest and quickest way to do it is by legislation at the very next session of the legislature."

CRIME IN EXPENSE

"Dealing with crime and criminals, with police, jails, reformatories and penitentiaries, and the cost of courts to try criminals, and the maintenance of jails and chainage, costs the taxpayers not less than 50 per cent of the total revenue raised by taxation."

URGES RIGID ENFORCEMENT

"I ought to underline that unenforced laws are no laws. The citizen has the right to see that the law is enforced. It is the duty of the government to enforce the law. It is the duty of the citizen to obey the law. It is the duty of the government to enforce the law. It is the duty of the citizen to obey the law."

DRINKERS UNPERTURBED BY POISON CONTENTS Anoints Gotham's New Year

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, December 31.—After five years of prohibition and thousands of warnings, threats, raids, arrests and kindred deterrent attempts by the enforcement agencies of the nation, state and city, New York swarmed to Broadway as usual on New Year's Eve with the old-fashioned purpose of getting good and drunk and with very fine prospects of achieving that purpose.

Chronology of News Events In Atlanta for Year 1924

January 6—Thermometer drops to four-fifths of a degree above zero, the coldest in 24 years. Boy's High school burns. Many hurt in fires and falls on slippery streets.

THE UNTAMED TONGUE.—He
that keeps his mouth wide open will find his lips shall have destruction.—Prov.
10:3.

Lost with his group for punishment on the republican party, regarding the merits and involving economic issues entirely divorced from party politics. The Constitution denounced it as unwholly, unnatural, and charged with political dynamite.

Since the election it has taken the same view, not in the "we told you so" spirit, but in the earnest hope of pointing out constructively the grave party danger that rested in any further attempt to tie the democratic party to the visionary tendencies of a few western political broncho-busters.

It has urged progressive conservatism, and a harmonizing of the southern and eastern wings of the party, for only by the cooperation of the democrats in the states which have brought victory to the party before can the party succeed again.

The democratic party in the past election, by reason of the democratic-radical alliance in the senate, found itself tied up to policies which the country did not approve, and in repudiating and resenting such policies the democratic party went down by reason of its alliance with them in inglorious defeat.

That is the whole story in a nutshell, and it should effectively serve as a lesson for the future.

RIGHT BEFORE REVENUE.

In the news columns today the manager of a well-known Atlanta paw brokerage business, Sol B.
Eplam, of the Eplam Loan company, announces hearty accord with The Constitution's fight on the pistol declaring that he will not renew his license to deal in weapons of death, made for no other purpose than to take human life.

This is commendable action, voluntary and without legal or other restraint, as under the present laws of Georgia any dealer may become licensed to sell pistols. Mr. Eplam has simply followed the same impulse that impelled The Constitution to bar pistol advertising from its columns—that is to place right before revenue, and to aid, by sacrifice, in the great solution of a problem that must be met and properly solved before the appalling wave of crime in this country is materially reduced.

The news columns of the newspapers these days are full of murders. Human life is almost as cheap as the pistol that takes it. Only Monday another Atlanta man was killed in the reception rooms of a social club in a nearby city. The ready pistol was the cause of it.
Thus it is every day—every hour somewhere in this great country.

The stores of the pawn brokers have become the pistol marts of practically all cities in which they are sold. They are not primarily to blame. The law that licenses them, or any store, to sell the man-killers is to blame. And the law that does this must be repealed and a drastic prohibitive law enacted.

In the meantime, however, the law in Georgia will license the pistol dealer and the position taken by this Atlanta broker is of that high order of cooperation for the prevention of crime that every dealer in Georgia ought to deliberately and proudly make the same sacrifice.

AN ATLANTIAN HONORED.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, in annual convention in Atlanta, signally honored a well-known and prominent Atlantan, Lauren Foreman, by electing him eminent supreme archon, which is chief executive of the national organization. It is a fitting tribute by one of the oldest and largest of the college Greek-letter fraternities in America to a fraternity man who has taken a keen post-college interest in his own organization. In honoring Mr. Foreman, the confidence was well bestowed. He is progressive, public-spirited, affable, and not only valuable to his business interests, serving most acceptably as director of public relations for the Southern railroad, but is one of the most useful citizens of Georgia and a constructive factor for the material development of his state and section.

The Light of Other Days.

I.
The light of other days, ah, yes
The days of youthful happiness.
When all the world about us seemed
The very world our glad heart's dreamed;
A Paradise, forever fair, Devoid of sorrow,
or of care.

On which Hope's star shed brightest beams,
And Love was Queen of all our dreams.

II.
O light of other days! O dreams!
How dim how far away all seems!
Once beautiful, but could not last,
Lost in oblivion of the Past;
Love's Paradise in ruin lies,
Time can with tears shroud fairest skies;
Youth had its dreams, its love, its light—
Sigh not, Faith's star is still in sight!

CHARLES W. HUBNER.

"Some have actually believed the editor when he said he needed money," says a Kansas editor. "We know it, because they have been paying their subscriptions!"

"The New Year brought us a new pair of shoes," says The Adams Enterprise, "and now we want to know if we have to wear 'em out trying to collect our dues?"

Ring out glad bells, the joy of New Year telling,
While through the darkness gleams
the winter moon;
Your wordless music faint, far echoes swelling
Until it puts the universe in tune.
Ring out ye bells, the olden tale relating,
Each lovely heart your message always tells,
Just as it did long years ago, while waiting.
The shepherds watched the sheep on Judah's hills.

III.
The Old Year dies, and with it vain endeavor,
And many a joy we longed for, unfulfilled;
Each eager heart from some fond hope must sever.
That in the old days every fiber thrilled,
But with the New Year, that is just awaking, Comes new-born hope to light the winding way,
After the night the dawn will then be breaking.
To usher in, unmarred, a glorious day.

There is no night so dark but that the moonlight
Will rout the shadows with its brilliant light;
There is no load so heavy, but the sorrow
Will loose its power with the passing night.
So let's be brave, be glad, and keep on singing,
Look to the sunrise as we take the road,
And let the music of the glad bells ringing.
Fill every heart and lighten every load.

Old-Time Prosperity Seen in Carroll County

Editor Constitution: Happiness is radiating from the faces and actions of the people of Carrollton and Carroll county, such as has not been seen in several seasons past. Corporations and business concerns report that they are making collections which have been on their books for several years. Some concerns report collections which had been virtually cancelled from their books. Many retail merchants report that their business is better than any they have enjoyed during the past several years, including the peak of the war-time price tide.

Carroll's prosperity can be visualized when it is known that she will produce, perhaps, upwards of 36,000 bales of cotton. (Cotton still has a kingly reign in Carroll county.) This production will exceed that of 1923 by 13,000 bales. The value of the lint alone, in this increase, will approximate $1,500,000, when figured at present prices.

With this 36,000-bale crop, Carroll county again takes the lead among the other counties in the state, already leading her next competitor, Burke, by approximately 5,000 bales, and Bulloch, the second nearest, by more than 12,000 bales.

The people of Carroll are in fine spirits and their plans along with the cotton crop for 1925.

The New Year's Challenge
BY JAMES A. HOLLIDAY

Today it is a "Happy New Year."
Just one week ago it was "Merry Christmas."

All over the world last night countless multitudes remained "on watch" to bid farewell to the old, and to welcome the new.

Some watched in silent thoughtfulness, reflecting, perhaps, over the many ungrasped opportunities that had passed themselves with the passing years.

Others, a goodly number, watched with deep reverence for the infinite power of a Divinity that directs Time and makes inevitable the sunset to follow the dawn.

Others, and a vastly superior number, watched in revelry, as though the passing of the years that bring each nearer to eternity is a fitting occasion for jazy joy and noisy hilarity.

Just one week ago last night, all over the world, countless multitudes also paused to hear the season's message of love and peace.

Following an old custom that grows more popular with each recurring Christmas, men and women and children carried this reassuring message from door to door.

Thousands of wayfarers along life's rugged pathway heard it—perhaps for the first time in a year; but one who listened can never forget.

In the homes of great cities, and in those far from their lights and noises; in the sheltering homes for dependents; in the jails; in distant islands at sea; in distant isles of remoteness—everywhere, even among the savage tribes—the Christmas carols and hymns were heard—
And by the mystic wave-lengths of the radio the melodies floated in from fathomless spaces, while restless children, impatient for the dawn of Christmas, were lulled, as they counted the hours, by the reassuring, repeated again and again,
"On earth peace."

And thus it is today as we open the book of 1925—
The holiday season is over. The obligation of life is keen and cutting. The responsibility of man is inescapable. We rejoice that on earth there is peace between nations, and we instinctively turn to wider the wider observation of the Golden Rule, for in that is the real life-germ of peace between individuals.

After all—
God's in His Heaven;
All's right with the world.

The new year finds Georgia, and Atlanta, in most encouraging positions.

There are some situations that are deplorable.

Crimes are alarmingly frequent.

Invisible government is menacing the best interests of a state and the high ideals of a democratic people.

Sordid secret influences are striving for mastery, as darkness strives to shut out the light.

Politicians have yielded to influences that have thus been capitalized by them, and in turn have all but legalized intolerance—Bad business, all!

But above it, Georgia and Atlanta stand invincible, and the aroused conscience of a great free people is disregarding the bad and building a greater state and city by a quickened and an unconquerable will power.

It takes the competition of good and evil forces sometime to bring out the best there is in the good.

Evil is militant. Right is timid—until the struggle for mastery. And then the right will prevail by its own dynamic force.

Georgians overwhelmingly resent invisible government, secret cabals, star-chamber manipulations, back-alley politics, clique and ring rule.

The mastery gained through such sinister processes have taught the dangers of minority government.

They have taught that the impelling duty of every citizen is to vote.

And vote they will in the future as they have never voted before in Georgia—as they never voted before in 1924 in Texas, when the issue burned on every hearthstone in that great Empire state.

These evil conditions are passing, and I believe we ought to discourage further capitalizing and gamifying them.

Just as sure as today is the dawn of a new year the political year of 1925 will find the tag of any secret political organization, be it within the Ku Klux Klan, the Catholic church, the Protestant church, an anti-klan society, a purity league, or what not, a political liability that will destroy the ambition of any man who de-signally wears it.

The day of individual independence of thought and action, even along party lines, is rapidly approaching. The day of organized bloc voting is doomed.

The ballot box is the court of appeal for a people who have been throttled by minority cliques and combines, and secret intrigue, until they have reached the point of rebellion. It is their move, and they are going to move.

And the qualification for office in Georgia hereafter will be the ability and the character to serve all the people, unhampered by organized control or restraint.

I have a boy 9 years of age. I believe as firmly as one's conviction can be, that twelve years hence, when he will have reached his majority, if he lives, the public conscience of the nation will have reached that ideal that he would be ashamed to admit that his father belonged to a secret and masked despotic political organization founded upon intolerance, in 1925, or 1926.

It applies to any boy of today.
It applies to any girl of today.
It applies to any son of today.
It applies to any daughter of today.
It applies to any citizen of today.
It applies to any citizen of tomorrow.
It applies to any citizen of the future.
It applies to any citizen of the world.

Draft Bill Anderson
For the Governorship

Editor Constitution: Under the head, "Why Not Draft Bill?" in your issue of today you discuss the possibility of Mr. W. T. Anderson becoming a candidate for governor of Georgia.

I am in favor of drafting Mr. Anderson. He has common sense, good judgment, intellectual development and well-rounded ability. Better even than these, he has convictions and the courage to back them. That is the type of man I want to see governor of Georgia. It seems almost impossible to make people realize what they are suffering in this state from such a mismanagement of the state and the evils thereof. Here is a case in point that has just come to my knowledge: One of the largest manufacturing concerns in the United States, producing articles that are used in every home and office in America, recently decided to build a large southern plant. Manufacturing and distribution experts were sent to Georgia to look for a location. After looking over the field a report was made that Brunswick was an ideal location for the contemplated enterprise. The company then sent its lawyer down to make further investigation. After two weeks' study of the taxing laws of Georgia the lawyer made his report advising against any investment or the establishment of any plant in Georgia. That ended the negotiations. Some other state will get this big factory. This is only one of the many similar cases.

Political conditions even interfere with home investments. An officer of a public utility company in one of the larger cities of Georgia recently offered an authorized bond issue to an Atlanta trust company. The manager of the bond department, in discussing the matter, made this statement: "I will give your bonds every consideration. I would come nearer handling your issue if your plant was located in some other city. I have known many cities and county for years, and they have the rottenest politics
there that I have ever encountered, and to say the least I am not partial to public utilities securities that are subject to such political hazards as I happen to know yours are."

For several years I have been trying to impress upon the public mind the extent to which our state is being damaged and injured by these conditions. I sounded the alarm in the legislature. I have talked to many people privately. I have seen many colleagues in other states who have been generous enough to give me for the discussion of public questions.
Yet Georgia refuses to be impressed.
She has a majority in the legislature and she has a majority in the government. Yet she refuses to do anything to save the state from the political hazards that are threatening her.
I am not a politician. I am not a party man. I am not a member of any political organization. I am not a member of any political party. I am not a member of any political club. I am not a member of any political association. I am not a member of any political society. I am not a member of any political organization. I am not a member of any political party. I am not a member of any political club. I am not a member of any political association. I am not a member of any political society. I am not a member of any political organization. I am not a member of any political party.
I am not a member of any political club. I am not a member of any political association. I am not a member of any political society. I

organization. I am not a member of any political party. I am not a member of any political club. I am

ciation. I am not a member of any political society. I am not a member of any political organization. I am
not a member of any political party.

Georgia has not begun a new year more promisingly in a decade.

There are spots of depression here and there.

There are some dangerous curves ahead. But the signal lights are burning; and there is no good reason to anticipate any serious catastrophes.

The farmers are in a better condition on the whole than they have been in a number of years.

The 1924 increase in Georgia's farm crop values exceeded that of any other state. Her farmers have learned to live at home and to grow more of the supplies they have heretofore had to buy. They have learned to balance their operations and cooperation has touched every feature of farm operations, developing most beneficially in improved marketing methods and facilities.

I like to walk around in a town I have never seen before. The other day I walked around in New Orleans.
What a town! I didn't get lonely there. But I do get very lonely in many towns. In exactly the way you feel lonely when you are with some people.

There is a fragrance of history, romance and beauty about New Orleans.

FIRP AGREES TO FIGHT TOMMY GIBBONS IN LONDON

Large Purse Suggested for Bout

Wear and Tear of Travel Will Be Supreme Test of Elevens in Today's Gridiron Classics; Coaches Agree That Easterners Are Stronger, But Strain of Trip May Be Telling

Paris, December 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—Firpo was agreed to terms from the National Sporting club for a fight with Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul, for a purse of $50,000, the division of which between winner and loser will be determined later, it was announced this afternoon. Firpo will go to London Friday, but is to return to France to train. The date of the fight is not settled, as Gibbons has not yet signed, but will probably be in February. Firpo has actually signed no documents. But he gave his verbal assent to the conditions, although expressing doubt that Gibbons could be induced to fight in London because of his experience there when the American knocked out Jack Bloomfield and was unable to collect the full amount he had been promised.

While the promoters expect to get Gibbons' signature for the Firpo battle it has been agreed with the Argentine that if the American boxer is not available some prominent heavyweight will be substituted. Thomas S. Rice, sporting writer of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and American representative of the National Sporting club, stated that a fight would be held in any event with Firpo as one of the contestants.

A. A. C. READY FOR FIRST CONTEST

"Baby" Boone, star guard on the Tech basketball team for the past four years and a candidate for forward on the Atlanta Athletic club team, who was injured in practice last week, returned to the fold Monday night and engaged in a long scrimmage between the regulars and the varsity. He was off a bit at first but before the practice was half over, "Baby" was shooting baskets as he has done all during the practice season.

A short pass drill was held last night by the A. A. C. varsity on the Auburn avenue court as the scrubs were mixing it with the Georgia Tech varsity out on Third street in the new Tech gymnasium.

The injured list that was at its height last week has dwindled down and now every member of the regulars seems to be in the best of health. Coach Bean is taking no more chances on hurting any of the players by hard scrimmages just before the opening of the season Saturday night in the city auditorium.

Short Practice.

The practice last night was short due to the scrubs scrimmaging Tech, but Coach Bean sent the varsity through a mauling drill.

There will be only a light workout tonight as it is New Year's night, but Friday night a light scrimmage will be held between the varsity and regulars in the final preparation for the opening game Saturday night.

The lineup for Saturday night will likely be Boone and Singlett forward, Bennett at center, with Captain Sullivan and Ferrell playing the guard positions.

That combination worked well together Monday night when they ran up a large score on the scrubs.

The playing of Bennett, at center, has been steadily improving and with his height, Coach Bean has worked out a wonderful defense and with Bennett as the center of the passing attack.

ST. PAUL BALL CLUB IS SOLD

St. Paul, Minn., December 31.—Sale of the St. Paul club of the American association to a group headed by R. J. Connerly, of St. Louis, veteran major league scout, was announced today.

Negotiations for purchase of the club have been under way for some time and Mr. Connerly came to St. Paul today to close the deal, according to the terms presented by John W. Norton, for ten years owners of the Saints. The amount involved in the transaction was not made public.

GOLF LEAGUE IS PLANNED

Waycross, Ga., December 31.—The Okefenokee Golf club of this city will undertake during the coming year, the establishment of a golf league composed of the golf clubs in this section of the state. The league will be organized similarly to the Pine Woods league of southwest Georgia.

Local officials are planning to invite the clubs of Brunswick, Douglas, Fitzgerald and possibly Albany and Savannah to unite in the organization. The matter was discussed at the last meeting of the club, and while plans have not yet been fully developed, local officials are expecting to take the matter up with the various club officials in neighboring cities early in the new year.

STIRB SIGNS TO MEET WALKER

Miami, Fla., December 31.—Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., and Hugo Walker, of Kansas City, Mo., are expected to meet in Miami January 12. The bout will be 12 rounds.

FIGHT COMMISSION REINSTATES TUNNEY

Philadelphia, December 31.—The state athletic commission today announced the reinstatement of Gene Tunney, New York, who was suspended last September 27 for carrying his opponent along at a show given in Elmhurst.

After spending 51 years in bed as the result of a factory explosion, a woman died at Cornwall, Scotland, recently.

Happy New Year.

MEANINGFUL messages over telephone wires at night, vague utterances from "personal local representatives," of a decidedly warlike nature and declarations from the boxing commission members that it did just what any respectable boxing commission would be expected to do, are following the news dispatch night before last that Walk Miller, promoter to the McTigue-King bout here nearly a week ago, had been advised to sue the boxing commission of Atlanta for $100,000 damages.

Each night Walk Miller has been in telephonic communication with New York with his lieutenants here, and there has been no more than one subject of conversation. Guess what it is. You're right the first time. Then the statements from aforementioned lieutenants that may mean anything. Finally the declarations, made in righteous indignation, that the boxing commission is engaged in the law in arresting the fight between Miller and King.

ALL OF which means nothing at all, except that Walk Miller may be making up his mind to sue the boxing commission for the many smackers or that, he thinks it's a good joke and wouldn't think of suing the dear old commiss. Miller is in New York. Nothing has been done there. Nothing has been done here. Let the commission keep its seat, then, and Miller's representatives here do likewise, until Walk peels off his coat for action.

Like Ed Danforth, Morgan Blake and the city commiss, this scrivener receives from Paddy Mullins and Charley Rose, joint managers of McTigue, the following reassuring telegram—reassuring for Mike's pocketbook: "We wish to advise that we were paid in full for our contract in Atlanta on December 26 by Walk Miller upon his arrival in New York and deeply regret that the boxing commission saw fit to take charge of the money in box office during his absence and create impression that he was not responsible."

TWO gridiron classics that eclipse in national interest any other football games of recent years takes place today on the west coast. They engage the attention of the east, the middle west and the far west, because of the eleven of all three sections—you might say the championship eleven of the three sections—will battle for the long end of the scores.

It is a notable event when four undefeated teams, outstanding in their respective sections, are matched in post-season games. Notre Dame, which meets Stanford, has been voted the championship of the United States. Might Stanford wreck that title by beating the Irishmen? Rockne is none too confident. That game is focusing more attention that the Penn-California game, but it is a matter of deep consideration by thousands, hundreds of thousands.

TY COBB'S LIFE STORY
Chapter XXXIX.—Ty Accused of Spiking—Cobb's Contention—Cutting Down Baker.

BY H. G. SALSINGER.

During the height of Ty Cobb's career there were frequent accusations made against him charging that he intentionally spiked pitchers while going into a base. Most of these charges were unproved, although Cobb's career is not entirely free from intentional spiking. According to his own stories he spiked only two men intentionally during his entire career.

According to baseball rules the runner has the right to the base paths. Cobb insisted on that right. He insisted that the fielder keep out of his way and that a fielder, blocking the line, was open to spiking. Cobb had his rows with players. He was never an easy man to get along with. He made a great many enemies but he never set out to "get" any man without giving him warning. If Cobb spiked a man the victim had himself alone to blame.

Few Blocked Him.

Few men ever blocked the base lines with Cobb on the paths. He learned it was poor policy. Cobb never took particular care to prevent spiking a man and he was with a good reason. He was entitled to the line and the man who tried to block him had his own safety to look out for.

The most famous spiking incident of Cobb's career occurred during the days when Detroit and Philadelphia were the leading baseball rivals of the American league. Cobb Mack was building his superb machine. J. Franklin Baker, a former butcher of Trappe, Md., was playing third base for the Athletics. Cobb was playing third for the Tigers. Cobb was playing third for the Tigers. Cobb was playing third for the Tigers.

BY GLENN S. WARNER.
Coach Stanford University Football Team.

Pasadena, Cal., December 31.—(Special.)—Stanford and Stanford's football team consider it the greatest honor to meet on the football field tomorrow the team of Notre Dame, generally considered the classification as the country's outstanding team. Stanford considers it an honor, because, as far as its memory goes, the game is the first in football history where a national title depended absolutely upon the result. There can be no question anywhere of the right of tomorrow's winner to be hailed as the football champion of the United States. No game in all history, therefore, ever carried as much weight as this one, and Stanford is proud to be the standard bearer of the Pacific coast in such an eventful struggle.

I realize that Stanford is taking on considerable of an assignment in meeting Notre Dame. We lay no claim to being an outstanding team so far as national ranking goes. But we do feel that we are as good as any team on the Pacific coast. Our record shows that.

Stanford's defeat by a close score would not necessarily indicate a weakness of Stanford and a weakness of the Pacific coast football, for no team this year has been able to cope with the Notre Dame aggregation, and a defeat of our would just make us one of the many.

Many Factors Considered.

Football results are dependent on many factors. There is to be considered the condition of the players and their mental attitude, over and above their actual playing ability. This holds true in football more so than in any other sport. No football team is great which isn't imbued with great fighting spirit and puts everything they have into the game. Stanford, realizing that they are the underdogs, will go into the game determined to do their best. On the other hand, Notre Dame has a great incentive to fight hard to keep what laurels they have won through hard work.

Notre Dame has several outstanding advantages over Stanford. The Rockne team is composed of players who have been together for three seasons, and who have met the best in the country, gaining valuable experience thereby. Their team work will be more perfect as a result than Stanford's. From what I can learn, Notre Dame can add to this experience a knowledge of every department of football, as is close to perfection as desirable. Football is no longer on brute strength; speed and cleverness count now, and Notre Dame is the better equipped for this.

Notre Dame has been confronted with the variety of football styles from all parts of the country. And I don't suppose Stanford will be able to offer anything in an offensive way that Stanford hasn't encountered before. One other item that has been overlooked, generally, is that Stanford has never met a team using a shift.

It is a novel form of attack for our players to see until they become used to it. Notre Dame has a great passing attack and is more of a specialist in this than Stanford, though. Stanford is a team which may be better than some, however, we make no claims for passing excellence or efficiency.

Better Kickers.

Stanford, in Cuddeback, has a great placekicker, and he is a fine punter as well. I believe he has it on the Notre Dame booters in this respect. Stanford's game is more of a steamroller attack, while Notre Dame is a more of a boxer's game, and running, deception plays and passing.

Stanford is going into this game the underdogs, but is going in to win. Past performance has come out on top in many games. When two good teams meet it is not always absolute that the better team will win on a given day. You will find in baseball that the tail-enders sometime slaughter the league leaders. Stanford has the tail-enders' chance. Stanford will fight.

PENN PLAYS ONTARIO TODAY

Philadelphia, December 31.—(Special.)—The university of Pennsylvania basketball team will usher in the new year by engaging the Queen's university quintet of Kingston, Ontario, on New Year's day at 3 o'clock.

With this international contest, the Red and Blue quintet will start its intensive schedule, and from this time on will be forced to show its mettle in order to keep its winning record intact.

The Canadian team comes to Philadelphia with a record clear of defeat. This season it has won every game. It is a team of the future, and the Queens team administered just as had a setback to McGill in Montreal.

In its three starts this year, the Pennsylvania five has been able to score triumphs, defeating Drexel, Lafayette and St. Joseph's College. In none of these contests was the margin of superiority very great, and Coach Mitchell looks upon the Canadian outfit as being one of the first real tests of the year.

Following the New Year's afternoon game the Red and Blue will be called upon to open the Inter-Collegiate league season against the Yale five, on Saturday night.

SIGMA NU ALUMNI BANQUET AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—Sigma Nu frat alumni residing in this community, following their annual banquet at the Windsor hotel here, announced the following pledges among American college youths: William Carwell, Robert Buchanan, Ray Analey and Russell Clark. Brief talks were made by Rev. O. L. Loring, pastor of Dawson Methodist church; James B. Guerry, of Montezuma; Judge R. L. Yoemans, of Dawson; J. W. Heath, of Atlanta; Stephen Pace and R. L. Maynard, of Americus; W. T. Lane acted as toastmaster.

The next annual frat alumni banquet for this district will be held in Dawson during the 1925 holiday season.

New Postmaster at Roberta.

Roberta, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—Mrs. C. S. Fincher becomes postmaster here tomorrow, succeeding Miss Louise Jones. The Roberta office is now in the third class.

BY K. K. ROCKNE.
Coach Notre Dame University Football Team.

Pasadena, Cal., December 31.—(Special.)—Well, tomorrow is the day of days for our team of Notre Dame. I rather wish the players were in better shape for it than is the case. Our trip, involving 10 days in the west, left St. Paul, did not work out as we planned. Our stay in New Orleans was productive of little good in the way of practice because of the rain. In Texas it was as bad, and I really don't know what we'd have done if it wasn't for the work we managed to squeeze in at Arizona during the time we spent there.

Worked at Tucson.

When we reached Tucson I think a strong high school team would have given us a battle, and that's no exaggeration. Part of this condition was due to the kindness of our friends along the line of march. They couldn't do too much for us, and it was next to impossible to keep the team in any sort of rigid training.

At New Orleans, for instance, when I ordered the customary beef hash, celery, and various substantial, that are to be found on any football training table, the order was taken politely enough, but when he turned to take it again there were oyster cocktails, and all the fixings of dinners, even to the cake and ice cream. They had us scheduled to practice at 3:30, and I was out at 4:30, so motoring, another dinner at 6:30, then at 8:00, and so on. It was one thing after another, and getting one's mind on football was almost impossible.

Those four days at Tucson, where our stay was made very pleasant by the University of Arizona, we had the first real practice in weeks. It was so terribly cold for the 10 days preceding our departure from South Bend that practice was impeded to a great extent.

Under these circumstances, I can't truly say that the Notre Dame team is as fit as it might be. However, the boys are full of fight, and I am sure, will give an account of themselves.

Tomorrow's game is the last that they will play for Notre Dame. These boys have been faithful in practice and in play, and they are, and by as decisive a score as they can. They want to do this as their last "big" game for Notre Dame, and they want to put aside their football feelings that they have been able to gain unchallenged distinction as national champions. That is what this game means to Notre Dame. That is why Notre Dame will fight and fight and fight.

Respect Stanford Coach.

We respect all of you, Mr. Glenn Warner is the dean of all football coaches. I personally, welcome the chance to match a team of mine against his. I am deeply appreciative of it. Warner has done much for football, and it is rather fitting that our boys should have his presence felt in this season should close their careers in a contest against the master coach and his players.

It is not necessary for me to say that we enter the game with the hope of the greatest respect for Glenn Warner and the team he has coached. Here on the Pacific coast, in one year, he has made his presence felt in the Stanford team is a powerful one. It is the champion of its section. And the team he will send against us will be stronger, I imagine, than the one he has sent on the field in his regular season.

Notre Dame is prepared for the greater game of us. It is ready to give all it has, and if it is defeated, there will be consolation for all of us in knowing that it was Glenn Warner, the old master, who accomplished it.

BIG STADIUMS FOR NEW YORK

New York, December 31.—New York will have two of the greatest indoor athletic stadiums in the world in the city of New York. The new athletic club and the New York Athletic club have both agreed to build big stadiums in the city.

Madison Square Gardens will be invaded by the vandals of the city. The new stadium will be built on the site of the present theatre zone.

In the interval he will have to dispose of an enormous amount of equipment on the eastern border of Central park but a meeting of the club will be held Friday to consider a proposal to put up a new edifice, cost, perhaps, $1,000,000. The club has outgrown the old quarters.

MORE SCANDAL DOPE EXPECTED

New York, December 31.—Baseball men in New York heard Wednesday that Judge K. H. Landis would soon give out some further information regarding the O'Connell-Dolan scandal which caused Ron Johnson to demand further details from the world series last fall.

Landis, it is understood, has had detectives on the snoop ever since the story first broke, trying to find out who, if anyone, put O'Connell up to the job of offering Heinie Sand, of the Phillies, $500 to throw a game to the Yankees.

Although Landis, at the time of the expose, indicated that the exposure of Jimmie O'Connell and Coby Dolan completed the case, public demand for further details has not abated in New York, the town most interested in the matter. Papers here have been insistently demanding that Landis give further details if he wants public confidence.

BIBB COUNTY INSTALLS MANY NEW OFFICERS

Macon, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—Old county officers pass out of office tonight and a new set will take their places tomorrow morning.

Vivian H. Roberts, county clerk, succeeds McD. Nisbet; L. A. Mitchell and W. O. Kinney, county commissioners, will succeed Kenneth Burns and Charles W. Stroger. Lee M. Hays will take office, succeeding E. L. Bishop, resigned. Old members of the board of county commissioners who remain office are Dr. J. H. Heard and John T. Moore.

Sheriff J. R. Hicks, Jr., Ordinary C. M. Wiley, Solicitor Charles H. Garrett, County Tax Collector Usher T. Winnett, County Tax Receiver Dan D. Dunwoody, will begin new terms.

Twelve-inch photograph records that play for 180 minutes and reproduce entire opera by aid of radio loud speakers without the noise of needles and gramophones, has been produced by an inventor in Berlin, Germany.

Irish Have Only Perfect Record

Pasadena, Cal., December 31.—The Notre Dame gridmen, outwitted, but with the odds with them as they have been nearly every game this season, are ready for Stanford university, whom they meet tomorrow afternoon in a post-season intersectional football game in the Rose bowl here. It will be the first time that the Notre Dame players have exerted themselves in a warm climate, such as Pasadena has.

Thirty-four members of the Indiana team arrived today. Late today they were headed into Rose bowl, where the famous galloping backfield tested shoes on the turf. The "Four Horsemen" were in fine fettle and were held down by warning words from Coach Rockne.

The Palo Alto Athletics topped off their practice this afternoon with very light scrimmage. The 31 players have found that the field at the bowl is to their liking, and they declare they will play under the best of conditions. The Stanford team will be kept in seclusion until the game starts following their practice today.

Warner Men Unafraid.

"The boys aren't afraid of Notre Dame," was the last minute word of Coach "Pop" Warner, of Stanford. "We realize we have been given a tough assignment but we will give them a battle."

Warner will make no predictions as to the outcome of the game. Coach Rockne declared, "The team is not in shape, the best weather at the bowl is slowest the Cardinals. All the talk about scores amounts to nothing but talk now. We are mighty glad to be here and we will play a hard game."

Unbeaten and undefeated throughout one of the hardest schedules ever faced by a team, the Gold and Blue aggregation will meet a strong foe, for it was the Cardinals that fought the Stanford team under the best of conditions. A powerful University of California Bears to a 20-2 tie a few weeks ago.

Coach Warner tonight definitely announced his lineup. Coach Rockne's list on the other hand was uncertain. He would not say whether he would start his famed first team or ones up the line. However, he made his "shock troops."

Following is the lineup of the Stanford team which will start and the Notre Dame squad which made up the greater portion of the game:

STANFORD	Pos.	N. DAME
Ted Shipkey	Crowe
Harry Shipkey	Harley
Neil	Neill
Baker	Walsh
Swan	Kiser
Johnston	E. Miller
Lawson	Lawson
Selmon	Stahlholder
Walker	D. Miller
Cuddeback	Crowley
Nevers	Layden

WEATHER GLOOMY AT BERKELEY.

Berkeley, Cal., December 31.—Football fans of the San Francisco Bay region are looking forward eagerly to the east-west game tomorrow between Pennsylvania and California.

The weather was gloomy today, with a constant threat of rain. Despite previous statements that the game might be postponed until Saturday if the weather appeared unfavorable, the contest will be held tomorrow, whatever the elements decide to do, it was announced this evening.

The Bears started well, but Coach Andy Smith having decided that further work was not desirable, Lou Young put his Quakers through a final secret practice. They still were somewhat stiff from their transcontinental journey.

More than 40,000 seats already have been sold, according to the management.

Neither team has been defeated this season and California has not tasted the bitter potion in five years. Penn is linked with Yale and Dartmouth as the best teams in the country. As a defensive team the Quakers have made a remarkable record, allowing only 17 points to be scored against them all season. Of these few scores not one is credited to straight football.

WARNER WILL USE PLUNGING ATTACK

(Copyright, 1925, by The Constitution.)

New York City—Glenn Warner and his Stanford team will go to the Notre Dame at Los Angeles on Thursday with some severe line plunging on the part of the Quakers. Warner does not expect to see them give Rockne's line a great deal of trouble at first, but the cumulative effect of their plunging will tend to wear down the line.

They will not drive at the middle but on and off guard, and tackle, just as they did against California. Warner's forward passing game, while he will use a few short ones, his main reliance will be the long passes, the ball being handled in the line but the line being in the line.

Warner has no great speed men behind his line, although he has one or two that he may slip in at the purpose. He has no really extraordinary long punter, but his punters get good height and his ends cover the kick well. Cobb's defense is tight and powerful enough in the line but against Notre Dame he will have to bolster up his line behind tackle, and end, with his secondary, spreading them out as far as possible, so as to take care of the end and tackle running of the "four horsemen."

This is likely to leave his defense vulnerable to an intermediate forward pass which Rockne's team work with great precision.

Notre Dame will go in for speed. Rockne may put in some second string men for a time as he has done in other important games, but when he does make his strike it will be fast and furious, with a mixture of shifts and passes. Moreover, if Stanford takes care of the wings or drops a man out of the line as a roving center, Stahlholder will make a cross-fire back for the middle of the line, a play that Jerry West Point very seriously last year.

STORY OF THE "PYTHAGORAS" MASONIC TEMPLE JUST COMPLETED.

The Pythagoras Masonic Temple, just now completed at Decatur, Georgia, and represented elsewhere in this issue, is of particular interest to Masons throughout the State as being one of unusually well-conceived design and particularly well adapted to Masonic purposes.

It combines in an unusually successful way the accommodations for lodge purposes, offices and stores, thus making an attractive rental proposition in conjunction with its service as Masonic headquarters.

This building faces the Court House Square, and takes the place of the former Temple built some years ago upon another corner. It is three stories in height, offering one floor for stores, one floor for business offices and the remaining floor devoted solely to lodge purposes.

It is built of fire-proof construction throughout, exteriorly of light face brick and Indiana limestone, with a judicious amount of marble and ornamental plaster throughout the interior.

The style employed in design is reminiscent of the Baroque period of Italian Architecture. Into the design are interwoven many characteristics, symbols and allusions known and recognizable by Masons.

The Masonic apartments consist of ample lobby and lounge, lodge room, banquet room and kitchen, together with the usual ante-rooms, preparation rooms, coat rooms, etc. The lodge room is said to be the largest in the State and is beautifully carried out in the Doric Order, so characteristically employed in the old temples of the Greeks.

It might almost be said from a practical standpoint that the lodge room has been built about a system of ventilation and it is expected that this feature will prove of much comfort and satisfaction to the lodge. A large fan situated in a mezzanine story beneath the roof will draw in the fresh air from the high altitude and discharge it suitably tempered by heating coils through grills in the ceiling. Discharge will be taken care of by a similar amount of ventilation louvers near the floor.

The architects were Messrs. Edwards and Sayward, of Atlanta.

Miss Boynton Honors
Miss Eugenia Coleman.

Miss Myra Boynton entertained at a beautifully appointed luncheon on Wednesday, at her home on Habersham road, in honor of Miss Eugenia Coleman, of Macon, the guest of Miss Mary Goddard.

Baskets of pink roses, ferns and narcissi were used in attractive arrangements.

In the dining room, the table was overlaid with an exquisite lace cover and held in the center, a silver basket of pink roses, ferns and narcissi. Placed at artistic intervals were silver candlesticks holding pink unshaded tapers and alternating with these were dainty compots of mints and nuts.

Miss Boynton was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Charles E. Boynton, and her sister, Miss Estelle Boynton.

The guests included 12 close friends of the hostess.

Miss Bratton Gives
Tea for School Girls.

One of the most beautiful occasions of Wednesday afternoon, was the tea that Miss Annie Lyden Bratton gave at the home of her sister, Mrs. Franklin Chalmers, on Peachtree Hills avenue.

The honor guests of this lovely affair were Misses Anne Lane Newell, Mary Armstrong and Helen Wille, who are among the large contingent of college girls home for the holidays.

In the living room a large Christmas tree stood, glittering with tinsel ornaments and vari-colored electric lights.

The beautifully appointed table in the dining room was overlaid with a real lace cover and held in the center a lovely basket of red roses, ferns and narcissi. Placed at attractive intervals were silver candlesticks holding burning red tapers and alternating with these were silver compots holding nuts and mints.

From punch bowls embedded in flowers punch was served by Misses Bessie Cannon, Jane Carmack, Jane Slaughter and Frances Law.

In the receiving line with Miss Bratton, were Mrs. Bratton, mother of Miss Bratton, Mrs. Frank Chalmers, Mrs. H. C. McMullin, Miss Newell, Miss Armstrong and Miss Wille.

Miss Emily Bratton, young sister of the hostess, received the cards at the door, wearing a dainty frock of blue crepe de chine.

Miss Bratton received her guests wearing a lovely costume of brown velvet trimmed with fur, and her corsage was of old-fashioned flowers and lace.

Mrs. Bratton's gown was of black georgette, beaded in cut steel.

Mrs. Chalmers wore a black velvet gown trimmed with fur.

Mrs. McMullin was gowned in blue chiffon combined with silver lace.

After the two the honor guests and young ladies assisting in entertaining together with a group of young men were invited to enjoy the informal buffet supper in the evening.

During the afternoon about 150 friends called to meet the honorees.

Spending Holidays in Atlanta

Miss Elizabeth Smith, lovely school girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of 1010 Peachtree street. Miss Smith is home from St. Mary's, in Raleigh, N. C., spending the holidays with her parents and has been a central figure in the many social affairs given during Christmas week.

Miss Vivian Dowe
Weds Capt. Irving at Lovely Ceremony

Much interest centers in the marriage of Miss Vivian Dowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Frank Dowe, and Frederick Augustus Irving, captain U. S. army, which took place on Wednesday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents in Druid Hills.

In the presence of the family and a few intimate friends Father James Horton performed the ceremony, which took place in the living room, where an improvised altar was formed of palms and ferns. Quantities of white roses were used in effective arrangement. On either side of the improvised altar tall cathedral candelabra stood holding white burning tapers, which cast a soft glow over the scene, and floor baskets filled with white roses.

Nuptial Music.

Preceding the wedding, beautiful nuptial music was rendered. Robert Carr sang "Till we meet again," and during the ceremony "To a Wild Rose" was softly played.

To the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," Miss Margaret Dowe, sister of the bride who acted as maid of honor and only attendant, entered first. She was becomingly attired in a lovely model of blonde satin-back crepe trimmed with the crepe side and narrow bands of gold lace. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow rosebuds.

She was followed by the bride, who entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were met at

Nine O'Clocks' Costume Ball
Closes Holiday Social Affairs

A brilliant climax to the many elaborate social affairs given at the Piedmont Driving club during the holidays was the fancy dress ball Wednesday evening given by the members of the Nine O'Clocks, one of Atlanta's most exclusive social clubs.

The club was beautifully decorated throughout, suggestive of the holiday season. The ballroom was banked at either end with stately green palms, while floor baskets of scarlet poinsettias were placed at intervals among the greenery. Garlands of smilax gracefully draped the colonial columns and the side walls. Chandeliers were studded with poinsettias and added a soft glow to the beautiful scene.

Supper was served at 12 o'clock from tables decorated with poinsettias and narcissi. Bright-colored favors and noise-makers marked the guests' places for supper, which was served following the welcoming of the New Year.

This club is the oldest of the dancing clubs in Atlanta, having been organized in 1883 and originally officered by Joseph Thompson, president; Howell C. Glenn, vice president; Joseph T. Orme, secretary, and H. B. Raney, treasurer. The original membership of 31 has been enlarged to approximately 75 of the society's bachelors and an equal number of the younger married men.

The present officers of the club are Dr. E. G. Ballenger, president; Frank C. Owens, secretary and treasurer; Lynn Werner, Robert Foreman, Jr., and Dr. William Campbell, members of the board of directors.

Beautiful Costumes.

Miss Callie Orme was an exquisite figure representing an old fashioned bouquet in a lace paper holder.

Miss Margaret Elder, wearing a gown of white satin trimmed in maroon fur, represented a French powder puff.

Miss Erskine Jarnigan represented "Ermine," wearing a gown of white brocaded satin exquisitely beaded in pearls. Completing her elaborate costume was an effective colonial white wig.

Miss Mary Ann Lipscomb was a perfect little "Howard theater usher" in a smart suit of navy-blue satin trimmed in brass braid and buttons. Her graceful cape, thrown across one shoulder, revealed a lining of scarlet red satin.

Miss Rebecca Ashcraft was a typical old-fashioned girl in her gown of pompadour satin.

Mrs. Wavus Martin was an attractive little "Peter Pan."

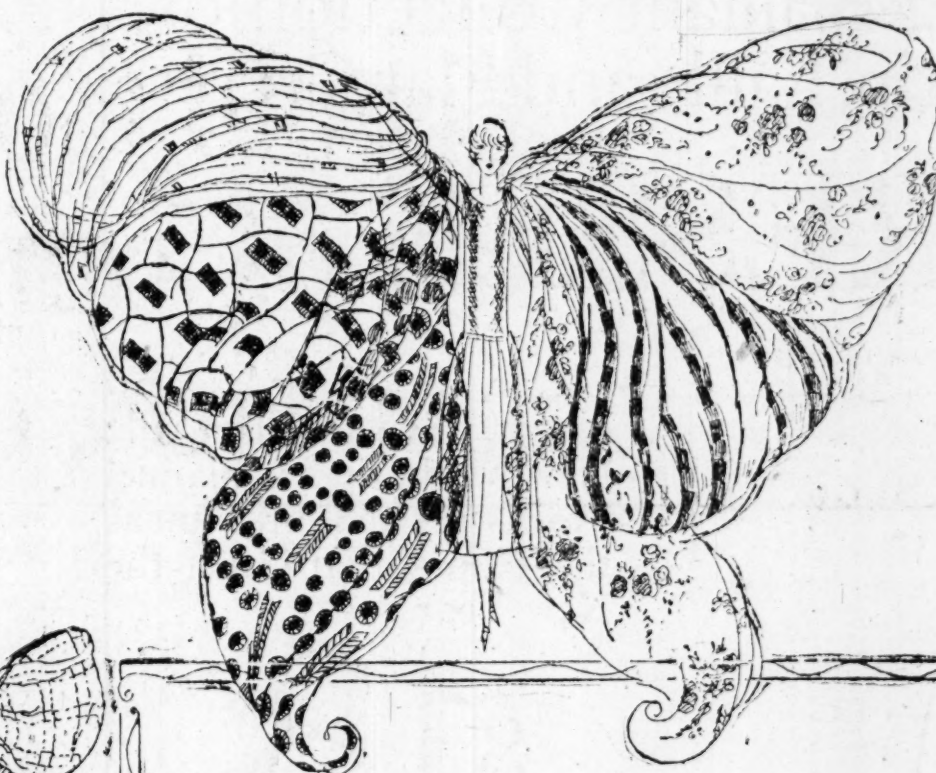

Cross-Word Puzzle Costume.

Miss Will Hawkins was a lovely San Domingo girl, wearing a costume

'Happy New Year' Is Expressed In Today's Social Affairs

"Happy New Year" is the slogan of today. Many informal "at homes" in celebration of the day will gather close friends and family connections to extend New Year greetings and enjoy a friendly chat over the tea cups.

Colonel and Mrs. Dwight W. Ryther will be "at home" to the military set today between the hours of 11 and 1 at their quarters at Fort McPherson.

The outstanding social event of the day will be the annual New Year's ball at the Piedmont Driving club, which will assemble several hundred members and visitors. A number of unusual features have been provided by the management of this fashionable club to make this affair a brilliant and long-to-be-remembered occasion.

The supper-dance at the Biltmore will be one of the most interesting and beautiful events given by this popular hotel during the holidays and will be the scene of many congenial parties. In the late afternoon several hundred members of the older and younger social contingent will gather at the Biltmore for the tea-dance, these affairs proving by far to be the most popular of the numerous holiday social gatherings.

Dinner parties galore, both formal and informal, will be given this evening in compliment to attractive visitors, debutantes and school girls home for the holidays. Miss Margaret Hirsch will be hostess at dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Standard club, to be followed by a theater party at the Lyric.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ashurst will honor Miss Helen Gamble, of Chicago, Ill., and Miss Mary Frances Barnhart with a dinner party this evening. Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Kennedy will entertain at their home on Fairview road, their guests to include the members of the Atlanta Bull-ers' club.

Miss Frances Traylor and Mrs. Edmund Eastman will be recipients of an elaborate tea, to be given by Miss Martha Stanley and Miss Ann Couper at the home of Mrs. F. M. Farley, Jr., on West Eleventh street. Miss Margaret Feagle will entertain at a bridge-tee at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Feagle, on Briarcliff road, Druid Hills, in honor of two of her friends who are spending the Christmas holidays at home, Miss Julianne Hagan, from St. Mary's school in Raleigh, N. C., and Miss Julia Sanders, from the Miss Mason's school, the Castle on the Hudson.

Miss Schlesinger Gives Surprise Party.

Miss Sara Ella Schlesinger was given a surprise party Wednesday evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Schlesinger, at their home on West Peachtree street.

Miss Schlesinger is home for the holidays from Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, Pa. This was a surprise party and about 50 of the college set were present. Lovely Christmas decorations were used, making a most attractive setting.

Miss Essig Hostess At Beautiful Tea.

Miss Caroline Essig entertained at a beautiful tea on Wednesday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Essig, on North Jackson street.

Assisting Miss Essig in entertaining were a group of Agnes Scott girls, Miss Vera Kamper, Miss Eloise Gaines and her guest, Miss Louise Sydnor, of Charleston, W. Va.; Miss Patricia Collins, Miss Emily Kingsberry and little Miss Penn Hammond.

Christmas decorations were carried out throughout the home, holly, ferns and mistletoe interspersed with shaded red lights forming a most attractive background. The Christmas tree, brilliantly lighted and decorated, added to the holiday aspect of the reception rooms.

The tea table, overlaid with a handsome real lace cloth, had for its centerpiece American Beauty roses surrounded with ferns. Four red tapers in silver candlesticks burned unattended.

Miss Essig wore a sea-green taffeta with garniture of gold lace. Mrs. Essig, mother of the young hostess, wore a gown of blue net over blue satin.

The guest list included 125 of the younger college-girl contingent.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox To Honor Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox will entertain at the New Year's dinner-dance this evening at the Piedmont Driving club, complimenting their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, of St. Louis, Mo., who are attending the S. A. E. national convention.

A group of intimate friends have been invited to meet these prominent visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox Give New Year's Eve Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory J. Cox entertained at a New Year's eve party Wednesday night at their home on East Lake drive. Attractive decorations of holly, poinsettias and evergreen were used in artistic arrangement throughout the reception rooms. The lace-covered table in the dining room was graced with silver baskets of red and white flowers, and red tapers in silver candlesticks.

During the evening a buffet supper was served. Mrs. Cox received her guests wearing a gown of yellow georgette beaded in crystals. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, Mr. and Mrs. Milner LaHatte, Mr. and Mrs. G.

The lecture of the afternoon will be delivered by Dr. Thorndell Jacobs.

Miss Cheatham Is Hostess.

Miss Nella Cheatham entertained informally for her Sunday school class at her home, 690 North Boulevard, Monday evening.

The reception apartments were elaborately decorated in ferns, holly and mistletoe. Roses, in silver baskets, adorned the tables. Prizes were won by Grady Lee and Clara Dee Tindler. Mr. Lee and Miss Audrey Hawkins won in nut racing.

Assisting Miss Cheatham in serving were Mrs. Spinning and Mrs. Cheatham. Those present were Misses Nella

Cheatham, Audrey Hawkins, Earnestine Collins, Clara Dee Tindler, Ruth Dunbar, Maude McNeal and Mrs. Spinning; Messrs. Joe Collins, William Allen, Grady Lee and Walter S. McNeal, Jr.

Dr. Loveridge Will Give Lecture.

Dr. Blanche Grosbee Loveridge announces a lecture on "Polarity, or the Law of Opposites" in the ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

An invitation is extended to all who are interested in developing for themselves a keener sense of discrimination. "Why is your joy shadowed with sorrow, your likes with dislikes, your fortunes with misfortunes?" asks Dr. Loveridge. "If you would have an accurate answer to such puzzling questions which concern your life acquaint yourself thoroughly with the principle of polarity, known as the law of opposites."

Woman's Society To Hold Study Class.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Inman Yards Baptist church and the society of the Ponders Avenue Baptist church will hold a joint mission study class January 7, beginning at 10 o'clock at Inman Yards church. W. M. U. manual will be taught by Mrs. A. D. Hall and Mrs. T. T. Warr.

New Year's Eve Ball At Biltmore Hotel Gathers Large Crowd

Assembling members of southern society, the elaborate New Year's eve celebration at the Atlanta Biltmore on Wednesday evening was one of the gayest and most brilliant occasions of pleasure and merriment in the city's social history.

The beautiful Georgian ballroom and the main dining room were beautiful in holiday attire. Large centerpieces of roses and red and white carnations and billows-of-the-valley adorned the tables. In the high arched windows and from the Georgian columns hung wreaths of lycopodium and holly.

A continuous dance concert was furnished by the noted dance orchestra of Roger Wolfe Kahn, of New York City, under the direction of John Hamp, and by the well known orchestra of Odelethorpe university, the two organizations playing alternately in the two great dancing-rooms.

One of the largest crowds included the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Cobb Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry English, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, Mrs. Richard Wilmer, Mrs. Alexander McDougald, James Alexander, Daniel MacDougald, and Captain and Mrs. Walter Roper.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Sr., entertained in compliment to their sister, Miss Rosalie Howell, of New York city. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Major and Mrs. Clark Howell, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Thornehill Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney and Major and Mrs. Graham Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Green were together.

Mr. Fred G. Tedger entertained Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Keith, Mrs. J. O. DuPree, E. Tedger and J. L. Brannon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler entertained Dr. and Mrs. Bryant King, Mrs. Miss Catherine Candler, Dr. William C. Warren, Jr., Miss Lousa Candler and Howard Candler, Jr. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff were Mr. and Mrs. Al Pritchett and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer.

are at home for the holidays, were honor guests at the tea given Wednesday afternoon by Miss Elizabeth Crankshaw, at her home on Thirteenth street. Red carnations and foliage plants decorated the apartments where the guests were received. The table in the dining room had a cover of real lace and was ornamented with a miniature Christmas tree, brilliantly illuminated with varicolored electric lights in the center, with vases filled with red carnations at either end. Red unshaded tapers in the silver candlesticks alternated with composites holding red minis.

Punch was served from a bowl decorated with richly tinted fruits by Miss Irene Thomas and Miss Virginia Howard. Tea was poured by Mrs. Joseph Crankshaw, Jr.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. Joseph Crankshaw, Sr., Miss Harriet Oliver, Miss Billy Johnson, Miss Ruth Miller and Miss Mary Wellborn.

Miss Crankshaw wore a Nile green chiffon gown trimmed in ostrich.

Mrs. Bates Gives Lovely Party.

Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates entertained Tuesday evening at her home in Druid Hills. Lovely Christmas decorations were used in attractive arrangement throughout the house.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a lace cover, and held as a centerpiece a bowl of red sweet peas and narcissi. Red tapers burned in silver candleholders. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Winship, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. George Raine, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Scott, Mrs. George P. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others as I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 82 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

MRS. EITNER INDICTED FOR LASHING WIDOW

Newark, N. J., December 31.—Mrs. Albert Eitner, of Irvington, today was held for the grand jury on charges of atrocious assault and battery, made by Mrs. Rose Donahue, a widow, who alleged that she was whipped by Mrs. Eitner.

Counsel for Mrs. Eitner, in whose custody she was paroled, told Judge Grice that Mrs. Eitner had followed her husband to Mrs. Donahue's home, armed with a dog leash, because she thought her husband was being enticed. The alleged attack was the outcome of Mrs. Eitner's trip.

Mrs. Donahue asserted that while Eitner had occasionally taken her down town in his car his attentions were only those of friendship.

In this month of January all good housekeepers check up their supplies of linen, list what is needed and count on supplying their wants at January prices. There is real economy in this for the household. Good linens last a long time if given proper care, and one of the most important things is to see that plenty of each article is on hand, so no special set is used too constantly.

Fine linen does not wear from lying away, and there is real economy in buying linen now, as prices during the coming months are sure to be higher. There is always a satisfaction in buying here, where our linens are well-known standard qualities, and the most accurate information as to differences in grades of linen is cheerfully furnished.

9 O'CLOCK BALL CLOSES HOLIDAY AFFAIRS

of green and white. The bodice was fashioned of bright green satin and the full skirt was of white tulle. Large, round coral earrings added to the effectiveness of this unusual costume.

Miss Ann Loth, of Staunton, Va., represented "winter" in a costume of snowy white marabou fur covered with tinsel and other icicle effects.

Miss Catharine Raine wore a stunning Spanish costume.

Mrs. Harrison Jones was a striking figure, wearing a Spanish costume of bright red tulle.

Miss Constance Cone was a gypsy girl wearing a costume of red satin with wide-colored ribbons attached to the waistline. She wore a bright colored bandana and large round brass earrings.

Miss Louise Stubbs was a charming French doll wearing a costume of white felt.

Miss Phoebe Yancey, of New York, wore an elaborate white Spanish costume.

Miss Douglas Paine wore a beautiful Oriental costume.

Miss Harriet Shelden represented a Spanish troubadour in a costume of black and white satin with wide sash of scarlet satin.

Mrs. Jesse Draper wore an attractive Balkan costume.

Mrs. Sciple's Costume.

Mrs. Charles M. Sciple made an adorable Peter Pan, her cunning costume of mustard-colored silk was flowered in vivid blossoms, and she wore a red felt hat upon her blonde head.

Miss Alice Stearns and Miss Nell Sims were dressed alike, wearing little old-fashioned boys' costumes, like the ones worn in "Little Old New York."

Mrs. George Fletcher, of New York, was a beautiful figure wearing a gypsy costume.

Mrs. Fred McGonigal went as Madame Pompadour in a light-blue tulle dress beautifully trimmed in lace.

Miss Grace Goldsmith wore a quaint old-fashioned costume of the Victorian age.

Mrs. John S. Knox represented a "fair-weather" umbrella. Her costume was of black satin, with flaring gores of crimson satin introduced in the full skirt, and a tight-fitting bodice of black satin.

Mrs. Ewell Gay made a lovely Dutch girl. The vivid green satin skirt was embroidered in red and yellow satin. She wore a blonde wig, with two long braids down her back, and a Dutch cap of real lace gave an artistic finish.

Mrs. De Sales Harrison went as a French maid and was gowned in black satin, with apron and cap of point de esprit, lace-trimmed around the edges.

Mrs. Joel Hurt, Jr., represented a Belgian peasant and wore one of the handsomest and most exquisite costumes at the ball. A brilliant yellow silk scarf, embroidered in bright flowers was wound about her hair and was finished with yellow fringe.

Miss Mary Shelden wore an old-fashioned costume of the Empress Josephine period.

Mrs. and Mrs. Elias complimented their guests at a dinner on last Monday evening, and on Monday, January 3, Mrs. Elias will entertain at luncheon for her guest at her home in Druid Hills.

Miss McBride Honors
Miss Ruth Smith.

As a compliment to her guest, Miss Ruth Smith, of Jackson, Miss., was the beautiful afternoon tea that Miss McBride gave Wednesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McBride, on Fifteenth street.

Quantities of Christmas greens, holly and mistletoe were used in attractive arrangement. Baskets of poinsettias and narcissi were placed on tables on consoles.

After the game tea was served at the individual card tables, each of which held in the center a miniature Christmas tree, brightly ornamented.

The guests included Miss Marie Shaw, Miss Harriet Wynne, Miss Gates Ector, Miss Louise Wesley, Miss Sarah Adair, Miss Margaret Bates, Miss Alma Roberts, Miss Frances Waddell, Miss Doris Davis, Miss Susan Broyles, Miss Kate Hope Ivey, Miss Martha Candler, Miss Helen Candler, Miss Claire Jones, Miss Ida Thomas, Miss Dorothy Collier, Miss Marguerite Snelling, Miss Bernadette Clarke, Miss Evelyn Minor, Miss Jane Sharp, Miss Susan Collier, Miss Martha Mizelle, Miss Martha Reyes, Miss Louise Moore, Miss Jacqueline Moore, Miss Carolyn Berry, Miss Susan Jones, Miss Margaret Brawner, Miss Mabel Shropshire, Miss Juliana Brooks, Miss Ruth Smith, Miss Eugenia Coleman, Miss Mary Goldard, Miss Betty Mitchell and Miss Elizabeth Branch.

Lovely Luncheon

Given to School Girls.

Three school girls were honored at a lovely luncheon on Tuesday by Miss Jane Davison, at her home on Peachtree. The honor guests of this occasion were Miss Betty Davison, Miss Gray Poole and Miss Frances Floyd.

The lovely home was decorated throughout with quantities of Christmas wreaths and other holiday suggestions.

Miss Davison was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Beaumont Davison.

The guests included a group of friends of the hostess and honorees.

Gate City Chapter
O. E. S. Meeting.

Gate City chapter, No. 233, O. E. S., will meet Friday evening, January 2, at 7:30 o'clock in the chapter room, ninth floor Ford building.

All members are urged to be present, and visitors will be cordially welcomed.

Miss Josephine Thompson
Is Guest of Honor.

Miss Josephine Thompson, who is visiting in Atlanta during her vacation, after attending the University of Wisconsin; Miss Helen Harper, of Cleveland, the guest of Mrs. Arthur Chase, and Miss Edna Ackerman, of Los Angeles, the guest of Mrs. E. K. Large, were honor guests at the elegantly appointed dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thompson entertained Tuesday evening at their home on Piedmont avenue.

The handsomely-appointed table held as a central decoration a silver basket of poinsettia and holly.

Covers were laid for Miss Thompson, Miss Helen Harper, Miss Ackerman, Miss Ruth Jolly, Herbert Hopkins, George Harrison, James Metz and Miss Susan Collier.

After the dinner the guests went to the Cornell music club and the dance at the Biltmore.

Attractive Affairs
At Biltmore Hotel.

Social activities at the Atlanta Biltmore for 1925 will begin today with a tea-dance and informal supper-dance, on which occasion the dance orchestra of Roger Wolfe Kahn will give their farewell Atlanta dance concert.

At the tea-dance Mrs. Brooks Morgan will entertain a group of four.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Daley will have as their guests, Miss Mary Hines Gonsaulus and Sidney Daniels.

Six guests will be at the table of Mrs. A. Pers. Charles Heyman and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Zacharias will be together.

Walter McArthur will entertain in honor of Miss Louise Pratt. Guests will include Miss Margaret Scruggs, of Brewton, Ala.; Miss Margaret McArthur, John Hightower, Ed Merritt and Joe Raine, Jr.

Among others who have reservations are John Malone, Mrs. W. J. Davis and Roy Mitchell.

Mrs. Buchanan

The honored guests will be Miss Christine Stubbs, Miss Frances Duffman, Miss Evelyn Newton, Miss Martha McLendon, Miss Georgia Knox, Miss Miriam Spinel, Miss Grace Gardner, Miss Lucile Casals, Miss Mary Frances Wiggins, Miss Hortense Hughes.

Miss Theron Mithvin and Mrs. James Guerin will assist Mrs. Buchanan in receiving.

Mrs. Jester Presents Pupils in Playlet.

Mrs. Lynwood Jester presented her pupils in "Father's Dream," a spectacular play written by Mrs. Jester, and presented before a representative audience in St. Philip's cathedral.

The playlet, which took part in the program, and little Miss Evelyn Evans was the fairy queen.

Misses Mildred Meiere and Lorraine Whitney gave original solo dances.

Misses Margaret Swan, Marshall Finley, Lorraine Whitney, Mary Alice Moore and Martha Poole were featured in the "Snow Dance," led by Miss Mildred Meiere.

The bell dance included Ruth Finley, Carolyn Jester, Frances Dominick, Billy Holley, Mary Will Crockett, Dorothy Moore, Ruth Baird and Annie Armstrong.

The fairies were Mary Schief, Alice Clare Warner and Mary Elizabeth Moore, a dainty little trio.

Signor E. Volpi presented Miss Cyril Jester, coloratura soprano, in several operatic numbers.

Atlantans Honored
In Americas.

Mrs. Coley Lewis and Miss Martha Lewis, a lovely member of the college set of society, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Council in Americas at the Windsor hotel. They were honor guests at a series of parties, the first being a bridge party at which Mr. and Mrs. Council entertained last Saturday evening.

Preceding the game an elegant turkey dinner was served at the beautifully-appointed table. Each table had for its central decoration a silver bud vase, holding white carnations and feathery fern, and dainty score cards marked the places of the guests.

Mrs. Lovelace Eve won the ladies' high-score prize, a dainty French boudoir duster, and L. G. Council won the gentlemen's prize, a congress card case, containing two decks of cards.

Mrs. Lewis was handsomely gowned in black chiffon elaborately beaded in crystal design.

Miss Martha Lewis wore a lovely gown of cerise chiffon, fashioned bouffant, with trimmings of deep cream lace.

Luncheon Honors Convention Ladies.

The visiting ladies to the Sigma Alpha Epsilon convention were honored at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club on Wednesday.

Mrs. Wilmer Moore was chairman for the luncheon.

The table, handsomely appointed, was decorated with a large French basket in the center, with smaller baskets filled with pastel shaded flowers with the purple and gold colors of the fraternity introduced in the tulie bows with which the handles were tied.

The candlesticks holding unshaded tapers also had tulie bows, carrying out the fraternity colors.

The list of the visiting ladies included Mrs. T. G. Hobbs, Mrs. M. E. Holderness, Mrs. J. W. Moore and her daughters, the Misses Moore; Mrs. A. K. Nippert, Miss S. C. Harvard, Miss Blair, Miss Brissone, Mrs. S. M. Studt, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Henry Harrison.

Miss Suzanne Smith, of Dallas, Texas, the guest of Mrs. William Marion Camp at her home in The Prado, continues to be feted at a series of delightful social affairs.

On Wednesday morning Miss Smith was central figure at the breakfast at Mrs. Earl H. Cone gave at her home in Ansley Park.

The attractive home was artistically decorated with quantities of evergreens, holly, mistletoe and bright red flowers.

Large baskets of poinsettias and narcissi were placed in effective arrangement, and a large Christmas tree, brightly ornamented and sparkling with vari-colored electric lights, added warmth and cheeriness to the occasion.

Mrs. Cone was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Miss Constance Cone. Mrs. Albert S. Adams assisted in the entertainment of the guests.

Invited to meet the honoree were the members of the Debutante club, who are Misses Harriet Shedden, Ida Sadler, Mary Ann Lipscomb, Louise Nelson, Catherine Raine, Mary Balenger, Ellen Newell, Lucy Harper, Corday Rice, Callie Orme, Teleside Pratt, Aileen Harris, Margaret Elder, Ethel Huxter, Valerie Maxley, Eugenia Buchanan, Mary Brown Spalding, Will Hawkins, Rebecca Ashcraft, Maria Brown and Louise Stubbs.

Peter Pan at Children's Matinee.

On Saturday morning, at 9:30, the children attending the regular Peter Pan matinee are undoubtedly going to have the biggest treat not only of the holiday season but of the entire season, when "Peter Pan" is shown.

Beginning with a beautiful picture of lake scenery in New York, the first picture deals with the return in spirit of an ancient Indian warrior, who tells the history of the Indian names of those lakes.

Poetic in its conception, and breathing the spirit of Peter Pan himself, follows next a woodland dance given by Miss Catherine Jones, a professional dancer of the highest class, and well known in Atlanta.

Miss Jones will wear a "Peter Pan" costume, and dance as does Peter in the famous play. Miss Jones is the older sister of the little girls whom the children will remember as dancing last Saturday.

And lastly comes the delightfully fantastic "Peter Pan" himself, loaned by the Howard management for the matinee. Best of all fairy stories, and appealing to all children from "eight to eighty," this picture, in addition to the rest of the program, is expected to draw one of the largest audiences ever attending the children's matinees.

A very delightful "after" feature of the program Saturday will be the "party" to be given by the Nunnally company, who will entertain in the store in the Grand building every child who attends the Saturday matinee. Tickets will be given to the children on entering the Howard which will entitle each one to this treat. Admission is the usual 10 cents.

Chaperons at the Howard are Mrs. W. L. McCulley, Jr., chairman; Mrs. F. C. Wilkinson, Mrs. E. W. Brown, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson and Miss Henrietta Masselling. At the Apollo will be Mrs. Ellis Barrett and Mrs. R. E. Bobbitt. The program at the Alpha will be "The Eyes of the Forest," starring Tom Mix, and "The Optimist," with Lloyd Hamilton, both prime favorites.

at the altar by the groom and his best man, Captain Philip Fry.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride, who is a beautiful young girl, was lovely in a dark brown ensemble suit of bolivia, a handsome Hixon model. It was trimmed effectively with bands of brown fox

fur. The blouse was fashioned of tulle in a lighter shade of brown embroidered in different colors. She wore a small brown felt hat applied with flowers in the shades of the embroidery on the blouse. She wore a gorgeous corsage of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowe entertained at an informal wedding breakfast following the marriage. Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank Dowe, Jr., and Mrs. Ray of Montgomery, grandmother of the bride. The table in the dining room was overladen with an exquisite law cover. Gracing the center of the table was a beautiful three-tier wedding cake embossed with flowers and topped with a miniature bride in all her wedding regalia. Silver candelabra held white unshaded tapers. Silver compotes were filled with white mints.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Roy of Montgomery, Ala.; the bride's cousin, Miss Lelia Dowe, of Montgomery, and brother of the bride, Mr. M. J. Dowe, of Florence, Ala.

Following the ceremony, Captain Irving and his bride left for New York, where they will spend their wedding trip, after which they will go to West Point, N. Y.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank Dowe, formerly of Montgomery, Ala. She is a descendant of the Rays and Doves of that city, both old and prominent families.

She is a graduate of Girls' High school, and later attended Agnes Scott college. She has enjoyed popularity here in her former home, and in New York city, where she has often visited.

Captain Irving is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. A. R. Irving, of Taunton, Mass. He is descended from the Irvings of Massachusetts and the Frenchs, of California.

He is a graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point and during the World war saw service overseas with the Fifth division, and was wounded twice. Captain Irving is now stationed at West Point as an instructor.

J. A. SWAIN CASE
CALLED IN MACON
ON NEXT MONDAY

Macon, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—The case of J. A. Swain will be presented to the grand jury on Monday, says Charles H. Garrett, solicitor general.

On December 16 Swain shot and killed J. Walter Johnston and then shot his wife and attempted to shoot his mother-in-law and himself.

It is said that Swain will plead insanity.

Mrs. Swain has been released from the hospital.

Breaks Arm While Skating.

Tallahassee, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—Louise Wheeler, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Wheeler, who moved here from Atlanta about a month ago, suffered a broken right arm in a fall while skating on the sidewalk near her home Tuesday afternoon.

Wheeler is the new manager of the Gainesboro Telephone and Telegraph company.

Star of "Sally"
Is Given Party
On Anniversary

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Atlanta was theatrically very fortunate when "Sally," the gorgeous Ziegfeld girl and music show, was dropped in her lap by the gods of the stage as a gift for New Year's week. No small part of that good fortune consists in the fact that Vera Myers is the dainty and charming little lady enacting the title role.

Tuesday night at the Robert Fulton hotel a party was held in celebration of the anniversary of an event that had a great deal to do with the success of the show, though it happened well, several years ago. For Tuesday was Miss Myers' birthday, and Tuesday night, after the performance, a group of her friends, both members of her company and Atlantans, gathered to honor her with a birthday party.

Just how many years ago it is since the present "Sally" first made her bow on this earthly stage is not known. There were andles on the birthday cake, but politeness forbade a careful checking of their number, and, in addition, it doesn't matter, for a girl like Vera Myers is a delight at any age.

There was, as said, a birthday cake. There were dainty refreshments of many varieties and there was music for dancing furnished by the "Sally" company's own orchestra. The party was staged on the mezzanine floor of the Fulton hotel, and it wasn't a better party than 99 out of a 100 such birthday celebrations, this guest is a poor judge and confesses that he is going to attend birthday parties more regularly in the future.

Ma Ferguson

Governor of America's Biggest State

Her Own Story

Exclusively in The Constitution

A series of articles by Miriam Ferguson of Texas:

Log Cabin to Governor's Mansion

starting next Sunday

"Believe me," she says, "Jim Ferguson"—that's her husband; she made the campaign to vindicate him—"won't be governor. He hasn't a chance."

This woman with a broom will direct a state with an assessed valuation of $2,200,000,000 and a budget of $32,000,000---twice the area of Great Britain and fifth state in population, with 4,700,000 inhabitants.

"... Just folks---that's good enough, isn't it? We're what we are and if you try to look like something else, why, you lose!"

"... A woman's place is in the home, all right, just as they say, but that's not any good reason for making the home a prison, is it?"

Texas voted "Me for Ma!" Miriam Ferguson, lambasting the Ku Klux Klan, piled up the votes of victory in the greatest political revolution her native state ever saw. . . . It was a woman's fight, and a long one---to prove her husband's innocence in his impeachment in 1917. Ma Ferguson got her spunk up. And she won! She tells HOW in The Constitution.

LOG CABIN TO GOVERNOR'S MANSION

The first article by Texas' woman governor: it's a story with thrills---one for every woman to read, and every man who has a wife, a mother or a daughter or a liking for a good story right out of life.

The initial article appears Sunday.

"Helped Me Gain Strength"

Mrs. L. P. Lambert, for several years a popular school-teacher at Morse, Louisiana, tells the following story of how she used to be afflicted, and how she recovered better health:

"I would ache all over. My feet, my toes, my arms, hands, head---my whole body seemed to be in one awful pain. I would grow so nervous that I could not hold a cup in my hand. My husband would have to hold my coffee for me to drink. Last fall I was in such a bad condition that I had to spend about three days in bed every month. It seemed to me that I was on my last go-round."

Then one day, said Mrs. Lambert, she happened to read about Cardui and the experiences of some women who had been helped by it.

"I felt that Cardui might help me if I tried it," she continued, "for I had been suffering with similar troubles to those mentioned there. I had heard of Cardui all my life and I knew many women who said they had been helped by it. The very next day I began to take it."

"Very soon after, I began to notice my improvement. I kept on till I felt like a different woman. I gained in weight from 96 pounds to 115 and felt better than I had in years. I took six bottles right along and found it a splendid tonic. My suffering was partly due to a run-down condition and the Cardui stimulated my appetite and helped me to gain the strength needed. . . . I take a bottle every now and then, even now, just as a tonic to keep up my strength, but I am in better health than I have been in for years."

All druggists sell Cardui. Try it.

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

SYNOPSIS.
Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the south seas, is startled to see a sinister hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which she loves.
She determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand, but tells no one her purpose. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of opium and cocaine. Burke permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him. Palmyra does the savage brown man a good turn.
Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked. The party lands on an uninhabited island, faced with starvation. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked the Rainbow. Thurston and Van Buren start at dawn in a vain pursuit. Burke outlines his plan to Palmyra of making her queen of Tanna island, and grows ugly at her refusal to listen to his love making. He decides to leave her alone on a deserted island for a few months with barely food enough to last until he shall return to her.
In terror Palmyra faces her first night alone. In the morning she sees Olive, the brown man, swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to live away together in the limitless sea. Making her a life preserver of coconut husks, they start their trip across an empty ocean. They rest at night on a barren beach. In the morning Olive motions her to lie down while he starts reconnoitering the island. Palmyra manages to send a message for help, and again they start their ocean journey.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

AGAIN BURKE'S SHIP IS SEEN.

Though the sail was drawing full, Olive continued steadily to aid their pace with the steering paddle. Palmyra did not know whether, when she had offered to help, he had feared the blade in her unaccustomed hands would make a noise, or that she might fall overboard or capsize the canoe. Now, however, though the girl felt their spidery craft must go over or under at the next surge, she raised herself with painful caution and, defiantly, reached for the scorned paddle.

Olive made no comment. Presently Palmyra risked a look back, and found his face masked by that grin which was so hateful when one would have read his thoughts. Was he assuming she, by her act, had declared herself a partisan?

As she dipped her paddle experimentally, the moon seemed engaged with the sea in a game of wits as to whether the shore the canoe skirted should remain real, a thing of coral and glistening palm feathers, or should float away into the ethereal. Now, when the surf sank into a sleepy monotone, the moon would appear to have spirited the island all but away. And then the sea would awake to the danger and rush after, to burst into angry uproar upon a reef still reassuringly substantial. But the moon in the end triumphed; as when the nearer land dissolved by magic to reveal a further shore distant, enchanting as a mirage; or again, when both sides of the atoll intermitted for an instant, and the moon flashed a triumphant beam right through, as if island and lagoon, of some vision fabric, had been sundered by one pass of a silver wand.

The luminary had long since lured its island completely away, when the eastern sky began to color with the dawn. For a time the leaden bulk of the morning bank lay across the horizon, impenetrable. Then its upper surfaces warmed, flushed into a glow and unexpectedly, here was the sun.

Palmyra had ceased hours before to paddle, but Olive, gray with fatigue, was still at it. Now, however, he desisted and opened coconuts for them to drink and eat. Then—the trade wind moderated, and steady as the breeze from an electric fan—he sank into a stupor, working the canoe by a sort of instinct that seemed little, if any, to interfere with his recuperation.

To the girl's troubled gaze the drowsing savage, bulky, bronze, motionless, had reassumed his Buddha aspect, smiling the same smile alike on human anguish and on human joy.

Why had she helped him? Had it been a mere physical effort to ward off seasickness? To keep her eyes from those menacing seas, her mind from the future?

The prisoner, she had still aided the flight; had found—yes, found a sort of elation in its success. Yet even now, despite the elation, she was not sure she desired success. Reason told her every fathom took her further from the white world she had known. But a something—instinct?—here on the water at least, was making her one with her captor.

Was she the victim of that strange fellowship which, in many instances, has led the drafted alien to fight bravely, almost willingly, against the people of his own blood?

Or was it that the savage who had carried her here in this life and death struggle for her bodily possession was, at least, preferable to the vile Burke in that the savage knew no better?

Or—was it Jaluit!

She had no knowledge where Jaluit lay, or how far. But it was within reach; her only hope. As the former German base, there must yet be four or five white men and a dozen or so of Japs; and if this one of the two American mission centers was closest still native Christians.

She so wanted to go to Jaluit that she could not fail to endow this savage with the grace of taking her here. Absurd though the idea, it gripped her till she could not, for the moment, but believe it true.

After all, though, what could it serve? She tried to rise for a view astern, but dared not stand. She saw no sail, yet knew her letter, the canoe theft, had made a chase certain. Their flying start would save them from other canoes but not from the swift Pigeon of Noah.

Now and then her companion himself would rouse to stand with ease on the jumping canoe and scan the sea for an enemy.

In one of the wakeful intervals she made, interrogatively, the sign of the scar which had come, in their conversations, to signify the white man. Passing at once from his Buddha-like repose into the animation of discourse, Olive pointed to the sun and then to a spot considerably further on in its line of march. Pursuit, it seemed, must be expected, but not as yet.

Now followed a long pantomime, at time unintelligible. The brown man, in his explanation, was hampered by the limit of action possible in a canoe. His story included himself and Burke, the island, the knife, what seemed to be a gun, the canoe, the Pigeon of Noah. Much of it, as it came, was meaningless because she did not grasp other parts which the meaning depended.

There was a point which baffled her, where Olive went through the motions of binding hands and feet, and forced something, crosswise, into his mouth. At first she thought he himself had been tied and gagged, then that it must have been Burke. But long afterwards, when the savage had again sunk into stupor, the explanation flashed into her mind. She could now reconstruct the scene ashore, in part from what Olive had made clear, in part from what her intelligence told her must have occurred.

Ponape Burke, then, had felt that, if they had not been rescued by some vessel, they must have a canoe. And to make sure they should not get one in the dark hours, he had had all the canoes on the island brought together and had set over these a guard of two men with rifles, himself waiting near.

Olive, she surmised, had expected secretly to obtain a canoe from a friend and so sail without destroying Burke's possible belief in the fictitious ship. But the brown man, to his dismay, had found this impossible. As daylight must not discover them ashore, he had had no alternative save to take a canoe by force.

Under cover of the rain he had somehow managed a surprise; had bound the guards and got away without an alarm. He had hoped to prevent the chase thus made certain, by cutting rigging on the schooner; but, for some reason, had had to desist with little more than an hour or so of delay ensured.

One detail of Olive's pantomime explained perhaps why Burke had trusted the canoes to any guard but his own. He was drinking heavily. This was good in that, drunken, he would be handicapped in following after. But it was bad, doubly bad, in that, to his own brute nature had been added the brutality of intoxication.

The girl dwelt on this fact in growing fear.

And so it was she responded with a cry when Olive, at last, clicking his tongue in chagrin, pointed astern.

No need for her eyes to seek out a tiny something against the sky to know that the Lupe-a-Noa was coming.

With burning brow and throbbing nerves, and aching mortal frame, I called upon a doctor with a most impressive name:

He looked me up; he shook me down; he turned me round about, Then, with impressive manner, said:

"Your tonsils must come out."

I stepped into a beauty shop to have some wrinkles canned, And thought that, in this quiet place, all worry would be banned:

Alas! Up spoke the Manager: "My wisdom do not flout;

I cannot do a thing until you've had your tonsils out."

By Dr. Walter E. Traprock.

I never celebrate New Year's day without thinking of 1904 when I was wintering with the blond Eskimo tribe of Kryptoks under the shadows of the pole. In that extreme latitude January 1 occurs at midnight. It is only three months more until morning, and the Eskimos crawl slowly out of their sleeping bags to celebrate, which they do mainly by eating and drinking.

Even Nature seemed to feel it was New Year's, for she turned on the most extraordinary electrical display I have ever witnessed. We were in the center of the Aurora Borealis, and the entire firmament streamed and shimmered with overwhelming color. In our snug igloo we munched the delicious blubber sandwiches and tossed off cup after cup of the hot seal oil, which raises one's temperature far above par. Outside, however, the cold was establishing new low-level records.

The great beams of the Aurora were frozen stiff in the sky, where they hung until mid-February, falling finally with a tremendous crash. The sea, for miles about us, froze solid to the bottom. This proved to be a blessing in disguise, for thousands of seals were imprisoned, and during the later hunting season we sawed them out just as quarrymen saw out blocks of limestone and dragged them to the igloo, still hemmed in their icy cubes.

You may recall that the spring of '04 was a very late one. This was due to this intense cold snap. So complete was the freeze-up that the rotation of the earth around its axis was impeded, and all the seasons were some 30 days behind schedule.

A New Year's Resolution. "Dear Wally" and the Editor, Chuck full of turkey stuffing, sat down on New Year's Eve to talk. Though both of them were puffing, Judell remarked: "I'd like to know Your New Year's resolution; Just tell it—(puff! puff!)—simply, please."

Then Wally puffed a puff or two And sharply said, "Dog nah it! I think New Year's resolving is A pesky, useless habit! I leave all that to simple minds Like those that I have guided; But say—(puff! puff!)—in your own case, Just what have you decided?"

Judell was fussing with his belt, And opened up the buckle; Expanding with relief, he said, "I plan to make folks chuckle. I am resolved, as never before, To spend a lot of money; I'll buy each joke that's sent to me— Provided it is funny!"

THE EDITOR'S GOSSIP SHOP

New Year's day!

You're probably still feeling a bit tired from celebrating New Year's eve—but then, New Year's eve comes but once a year. So we want all Fun Shoppers to make merry to the full. (We have a hunch many of them got full, too!)

1925 is going to be the best year we—you and us—have ever enjoyed. And we want you to enjoy it mainly through the humor in The Fun Shop.

Did you resolve to do your part by contributing regularly?

Readers are invited to contribute. All humor, epigrams (or humorous mottoes), jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires and bright sayings of children—must be original and hitherto unpublished. Accepted material will be paid for at the rate of $1 to $10 per contribution and from 25 cents to $1 per line for poetry according to its character and value in the judgment of the editor. Unaccepted contributions cannot be returned. All manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed: The Constitution Fun Shop Headquarters, 8 West 40th Street, New York City.

Japanese Soprano Scores In 'Madame Butterfly' Role

Working under the unusual handicap of comparison of her work with that of the Metropolitan Opera company—how can she be presented in the auditorium without mental comparison—the San Carlo Grand Opera company Wednesday night gave a performance of "Madame Butterfly" that won ample applause and caused most favorable comment.

The audience, to be frank, was not as large as it should have been. Probably 2,000 people saw the performance, but it was an offering worthy of a full house.

The emotional music of Puccini found half a dozen worthy interpreters in the cast which sang the leading roles. The outstanding figure, of course, is Tamaki Miura, in the title part. It is an interesting experience to listen to a Japanese soprano, one of the very few in grand opera—sung by a real Japanese soprano. Madame Miura has a voice which is best described as appealing. Its purity of tone is most marked and its softness of timbre is also a source of heights of dramatic vocalism in the more dramatic moments.

Londonio Torcello is the tenor with a pleasant voice well capable of handling the role. Giuseppe Intermante has a splendid baritone and it is probable that his voice, aside from that of Madame Miura, brought more favorable comment among last night's audience than any other.

Ada Salori as "Suzuki" had no opportunity for the display of her really good contralto until her duet with Butterfly late in the second act, but when her opportunity came she showed fully why she was included in the company.

Other members of the cast included Yolanda Rinaldi, Giuseppe Casadore, Fausto Bozza, Amund Sjøvik and Frances Hesa.

The conductor was Aldo Franchetti and he was entirely suitable for the task. He should insist, as she did, that he take all the curtain calls with her.

While the San Carlo company is, of course, light compared with the great opera companies of the time, it is at the same time highly commendable that it is able to put on so artistic and enjoyable a service.

This organization, it is believed, is the only one playing grand opera "on the road," and when this is remembered it is truly remarkable that the singers can present a performance so finished in stage settings, in artistic perfection and in complete charm.

READER TO CONTINUE AS CENTRAL PASTOR

Dr. Luke E. Rader, formerly of Chicago, who has been serving conditionally as pastor of Central Baptist church for several months, Wednesday night announced to his congregation that he would continue his work here. Dr. Rader was called to Atlanta about nine months ago, but reserved his decision as to a definite answer.

Dr. Rader's announcement was made during a special service called to watch the old year out and the new year in.

Another interesting feature of the service was the announcement of Chairman Harrison, of the board of deacons, that the church is free of debt for the first time in its history of more than 50 years.

Among those present at the watch service was Dr. Caleb A. Ridley, well known Atlanta minister who served Central Baptist church for several years, S. P. Moncrief, A. F. Todd, Colonel George McLarty, Dr. A. L. Curtis and other church leaders also were present.

The Central church was organized more than half a century ago, the congregation worshipping on Walker street in a humble edifice for several years before removing to the corner of Garnett and Forsyth streets, where it occupied an ancient Jewish synagogue for many years. While Dr. Caleb Ridley was pastor the congregation purchased a large lot on the corner of Cooper and Whittall streets where the present large building was erected. The Citizens' and Southern bank and the business men mentioned above did much toward the erection of the building, according to statements made by officials of the church.

RE-INSURANCE HEARING MISTAKE, SAYS WRIGHT

Announcement that a hearing on re-insurance of the old State Mutual Life Insurance company, which was held in its office Wednesday, was the result of a misunderstanding, Comptroller General William Wright said Wednesday.

Wright said the hearing was not intended to hold a public hearing in the near future, at least, he said, and it may be a year or more before final disposition is made of the old company.

General Wright said the misunderstanding probably arose after the attorney for one company, which wishes to re-insure the business of the old company, had asked him to be sure and let him be heard before finally disposing of the case. He said he assured him that he would not mean to involve a public hearing.

Disposition of the old company may be made in one of three ways, he said—either by re-insurance, by restoring it as a going concern, or by continuing its operation under the control of the commissioner.

However, there are outstanding approximately $1,000,000 in what are termed "certificates," he said, over which there is a dispute as to liability. The department contemplates there is no liability and has been asked to test this in the superior court of Floyd county. No date for hearing has yet been set, however, and inasmuch as it is a foregone certainty that the case will be carried to the supreme court for final decision, it will be many months, at least, before the department is ready to consider re-insurance bids or any other method of disposal.

The North American Life Insurance company, of Atlanta, which received its charter from the secretary of state last Monday, was one company which wished to make a bid for re-insurance of the old State Mutual. General Wright said this company had not yet completed its organization, and he added, it will have ample time to do so before the State Mutual affairs are disposed of. A new insurance company, under the law of the state, has two years after issuance of its charter in which to complete its organization, arrange for its guaranty fund, and make such other necessary financial arrangements before it is ready to operate.

Airplane service has been extended so that passengers may now travel by air from Switzerland to Amsterdam, Holland.

EVANKS MANTEL & TILE COMPANY
MANTELS
TILE FLOORS AND WALLS
45 AUBURN AVE. ATLANTA, GA.

In this year of grace may there be work and service for all, with the will to work and the will to serve; and may work bring comfort and service bring satisfaction.

May we do with all our might whatever our hands find to do, that we may grow strong in body, mind and soul. May good digestion wait on appetite and may health, happiness and prosperity be the lot of all who toil with hand or brain.

May youth add to manliness knowledge, to knowledge temperance, to temperance patience, and to patience brotherly kindness; may our young women be polished after the similitude of a palace, not idlers, but fruitful in all good works.

May age be like autumn, not frosty, but kindly, rich in heart, wise in counsel and ever growing in grace. May homes increase and little children be not forbidden there; may the sacred fires of the family altar burn brightly; may the influence of home be magnified, and may pure religion do its perfect work, to the end that peace and good will may not perish from the face of the earth.

Willingham-Tift Lumber Co.

To engineers' estimates, the project will cost $2,500,000.

Items of Budget.

Mr. Smith's budget, as presented and approved by the water committee, asks $339,190.40 for operating expenses; $126,000 for repairs and replacements; $138,000 for new water pipes; $120,000 for tapping and meter connections; $6,500 for new equipment; $350,000 for the Hemphill station water main; $25,000 for the South Boulevard main; $40,000 for the Tenth street and Virginia avenue main, and $50,000 for property purchases.

The last item, it was explained by Mr. Smith, pertains to property adjoining the waterworks, in connection with which an objectionable condition has arisen, and which, he says, should be owned by the city.

Mr. Smith will ask the 1925 finance committee, of which Alderman W. B. Duval is chairman, to place the entire amount in the finance sheet, and it is possible that other small amounts may be added before final appropriations are decided.

Figures made public by Mr. Smith several days ago showed that 924,000 gallons of water were used by Atlantans during 1924, or an average of 20,917,000 gallons per day.

ELLINGWOOD DIX, MISSING 4 DAYS, SOUGHT BY RADIO

Wednesday night a description of ELLINGWOOD DIX, of Cleveland, Ohio, was broadcast from the radio station of the Commercial-Appeal, at the request of the family, who are alarmed and puzzled over his mysterious disappearance.

Mr. Dix is a former resident of Atlanta and a son of Harry L. Dix, a well-known jeweler of that city.

Saturday night he left his home and is believed to have gone to Memphis to spend a while with that city. Harry L. Dix, Jr., brother of the missing man, declared that Mr. Dix had suffered a lapse of memory in account of strenuous work the past two years.

LODGE NOTICES

Practically every Atlanta lodge has abandoned the use of letter notices of meetings, now using this column of The Constitution for all such notices. Every lodge member is urged to read this column for all calls and any meeting notice published in the morning has time to reach every member before night. It is the surest and the cheapest way!
